Common Council Will Decide Tonight On the New Charter Proposals

Whether Kingston Voters Will Have An Opportunity To Cast Their Votes on the Plan Will Be Decided Tonight.

GREAT INTEREST

Aldermen Have Been Receiving Many Calls From Parties on Both Sides of the Question.

Whether Kingston voters will have the opportunity to vote on the new charter proposals to give the city a more modernized form of government will be decided at a session of the common council in the chambers at the city hall this evening. The session is likely to develop into one of the most interesting of the year and representatives of many clubs, political parties and political clubs are expected to be present to watch the actions of their representatives in the city government.

Aldermen today have been receiving many phone calls from parties on both sides of the question, one of the more active organizations being the Federation of Women's Clubs, which is urging that the proposal be passed so that the voters may have an opportunity to register an opinion. Large numbers of women are expected to be present during the session this evening to check up on the decisions of the aldermen.

It is likely that the most of Republicans, majority party in the council, will back Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman in voting favorably on the measure. A number of Republican aldermen have already signified their intentions of voting for the measure, while several others have refused to make known their decision. While the measure is not a political one, the Democrats for the most part are expected to oppose the proposal, though no concerted effort has been announced by Democratic aldermen along this line.

However, Joseph Epstein, who was one of the members of the charter revision commission, refused to sign the report of the work of the commission, giving as his reason his failure to attend a number of the sessions during which the revised charter was written, and this action will give him an opportunity to oppose the newly proposed charter even though he was a party to its making. What other Democratic aldermen will do is open to question.

The oft mooted question of whether legislators may be expected to vote themselves out of office is expected to play an important part in tonight's proceedings. While the vote tonight will not change the present charter, it being simply a question of whether or not the people will have a chance to vote on the proposal, a referendum, the action of the council in enacting the proposal will open the question for public consideration and should the measure be approved by the people at a special election no more than four of the present body could be expected to be returned to office under the revised plan.

It has been pointed out in answer to charges that the expense of a special election would prohibit such action, that the money for a special election was included in the budget in preparation for this referendum.

The charter revision commission began its work last winter with Alderman-at-Large John Schwenk, Aldermen Jacob H. Tremper, Jr., Paul Zucca and Joseph Epstein, together with Jay Terry, president of the Kingston Taxpayers Association; William B. Byrne, Walter E. Joyce, Corporation Counsel Matthew V. Cahill and Mayor Heiselman making up the commission. The group was frequently advised by Mr. Mapes, secretary of the New York State Mayors' Conference, and the charter is similar to several working successfully in other cities.

Revisions have been made from time to time, and other revisions may be expected before the voters get an opportunity to pass on it.

The original idea of a revised charter lies with Mayor Heiselman, and he stated that it was not a political proposal, but was based on the theory that the cumbersome board government now in effect in Kingston was unworkable, expensive and does not bring close cooperation between the branches of government now necessary in a city of this size. The revised scheme will place the administrative powers in the hands of a few persons responsible to the people, so that failures may be laid where they belong without the customary dogmatism as at present. The complete proposal has appeared in past issues of The Freeman.

The mayor, together with other members of the commission, has devoted considerable time and thought to the revised charter, bringing to bear his experience in office under the present cumbersome plan. Mr. Mapes has given valuable aid with his knowledge of how the revised plan has worked out in other places. Whether this work will or will not be done will depend upon the action of the council tonight.

London, May 7 (AP).—Employees of London's principal meat market went on strike today because 1347 demands for double pay for July 10 day were denied, threatening the city with a shortage in its fresh meat supply.

R. E. Craft Company Will Operate Store In Newburgh

Expansion of the R. E. Craft Company interests, now operating The Great Bull Markets in Kingston and Poughkeepsie, was announced this morning with the leasing of the old armory at Newburgh, which will be turned into a modern store of the type of the two now operated by the company.

The building in Newburgh was obtained from the Board of Supervisors of Orange county last night for $35,000, and the Newburgh News says that the prospective buyers will invest $30,000 in improving the building. The transaction was completed through V. B. Van Wageningen, Kingston attorney, and Morris L. Levinson, Newburgh real estate man. The Craft interests this morning made the following announcement:

"The R. E. Craft Company takes pleasure in announcing that it has leased the armory property, Broadway, Newburgh, N. Y., and, as soon as alterations and fixtures can be obtained, will open a self-service food market in Newburgh, similar to those now being operated in Kingston and Poughkeepsie."

"The market will be under the management of Charles Lieske, 215 Ten Broeck avenue, this city, formerly of the Internal Revenue Department."

The announcement included the following tribute to Freeman advertising: "The Craft Company says that a great deal of its success in distributing food products and other household supplies by the self-service system has depended upon the very fine cooperation it has received from the Kingston Freeman in its newspaper advertising."

Farbers Seek Warrants For Arrest of Other; Mother Also Arrested

Although there was the usual large gathering of idle men in the lower corridor of the city hall this morning everything was peaceful until Mrs. Sadie Farber of 46 Chambers street, saw George Farber, who lives at the corner of East Union street and Chambers street, and what followed then led to Officer Burger placing Mrs. Farber under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct.

It seems that George Farber had called to see Judge Culliton this morning to obtain a warrant for the arrest of his cousin, Norman Farber, of 46 Chambers street, who George charged with reckless driving.

While George Farber was closeted with the judge in the private office, Norman Farber and his mother appeared at the city hall for Norman wanted to see the judge and swear out a warrant for the arrest of his cousin, George, who he alleged had beaten him up.

It was while Norman and his mother were walking through the lower corridor of the city hall that George emerged from Judge Culliton's office and was seen by Mrs. Farber.

The police say that Mrs. Farber set on George and was creating such a rumpus that it was necessary to place her under arrest to quell the disturbance.

Later in police court an adjournment was taken until Wednesday morning when it is expected that the reckless driving charge, the assault charge and the disorderly charge will all be thrashed out.

DIAPER DERBY

More Man, a Father, Outdoes Several Mothers at Chicago

Chicago, May 7 (AP).—More man is coming into his own in a big way. While the men in the audience cheered lustily, Herbert Beck, 28, changed the diaper of his six weeks old daughter, Lynn, in the elapsed time of 39 seconds, thus outdoing several women contestants in a diaper derby yesterday held in connection with a better homes exhibit.

Beck, who doesn't hold with the "keep-the-safety-pin-in-the-mouth" school of thought in diaper changing, competed with 11 women, and while he didn't finish in the money he did give the women a run for their laurels.

Mrs. Josephine Piepritz won first place by changing the diaper of her one month old daughter, Dolores, in 29 seconds flat. Mrs. Joseph Sueth was second and Mrs. Archibald Cameron was third.

Prizes totalled $36 in laundry service, $10 in cash, and several box lots of diapers.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 7 (AP).—The position of the treasury on May 4 was: Receipts, $30,363,544.01; expenditures, $32,469,788.52; balance, $1,853,512,424.15; custom receipts for the month, $4,556,683.29. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $2,145,473,111.43; expenditures, $6,012,583,345.52; (including $2,375,346,486.66 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $2,867,444,134.14; gross debt, $25,649,182,472.48; a decrease of $4,551,421.75 under the previous day; gold assets, $8,725,377,302.59.

On Way To Capital

Mayfield, Ky., May 7 (AP).—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson swam back to Washington today from a ferry into this Democratic stronghold where he denounced the economic policies of Senator Huey P. Long, Father Charles E. Connelley and Dr. F. E. Townsend. He called on the administration for "fortified legislation" of three movements. The United States chamber of commerce drew his praise for opposing the Long-Connelley-Townsend proposals.

Back on the Job

New York, May 7 (AP).—Wall Street's hottest sandwich man, Frank Greer, was back on his old beat today, considered once again his dollar-a-day sandwich board. Greer, 30, was back after his twenty-three month absence when he returned a $45,000 pocket of securities to its owners, chose the sandwich board in preference to life on a Pennsylvania farm.

"I don't want to go to a farm," he said. "I don't want to go to the bank."

London Strike

London, May 7 (AP).—Employees of London's principal meat market went on strike today because 1347 demands for double pay for July 10 day were denied, threatening the city with a shortage in its fresh meat supply.

Boston Fire Takes Four Lives Today When Home Of J. La Valle Is Razed

Portrait Painter's Mother and Daughter, 14, Burn; 2 Maids Killed in Leap; 7 Persons Injured Badly.

LA VALLES AWAY

Fire, Which Did $25,000 Damage, Apparently Started at Bottom of Dumb Waiter Shaft.

Boston, May 7 (AP).—Four persons, including the aged mother and 14-year old daughter of John LaValle, internationally known portrait painter, were burned to death or killed in leaps, and seven other persons were injured today as fire swept the artist's home.

The dead: Mrs. John LaValle, Sr., 70, crippled mother of the artist, burned to death in her bed.

Alice LaValle, 14, daughter of John LaValle, burned to death. Body found in debris after collapse of fourth floor.

Miss Mary Dolan, 24, maid in LaValle home, killed in leap from fourth floor.

Miss Kathleen Costello, 25, killed in fourth floor leap.

The injured: Ellen Elaine, 6, daughter of LaValle, slight internal injury, severe burns.

Mary Dean, 13, daughter of LaValle, internal injuries and severe burns.

Mary McLeod, nurse of Mrs. LaValle, burns on back, shock.

Fireman William Hayhurst, severe cuts and bruises. Lieutenant Charles O'Brien, fractured leg. Ladderman John Murphy, smoke inhalation and burns.

Also injured was Molly O'Reilly, 25, cook, who escaped the flames but suffered smoke inhalation.

LaValles Were Away

The fire occurred in the absence of the portrait painter and his second wife, the former Virginia Wilson of Cincinnati, daughter of Robert Wilson, tobacco trade multimillionaire.

Starting from an undetermined point, apparently at the bottom of a dumb-waiter shaft in the four-story brick residence on Marlborough street, in the Back Bay district, the fire mushroomed up through the house, trapping the sleeping household on the two upper floors.

John LaValle, 10, and his sisters, Mary and Ellen, were trapped by the upward-rushing flames in their second-floor bedrooms. John leaped, virtually unhurt, but his two sisters, suffering from severe burns by the rapidly spreading flames, were further injured when they leaped.

Meanwhile, fire alarm had been sounded by aroused neighbors and police and other members of the household, awakened on the upper floors, screamed for aid.

Mary Dolan and Kathleen Costello crept outside their fourth floor window and clung there desperately while the fire scorched them and choked them with billowing smoke. Bystanders screamed to the pair to maintain their hold, but they at last were forced to drop and were crushed on the pavement below.

Firemen who fought their way into the house, found LaValle's aged mother already dead in her bed, which itself was in flames. The daughter, Alice, apparently died before she had a chance to seek safety. Her body was found beneath debris after the collapse of the fourth floor.

Miss Mollie O'Reilly, 25-year-old cook, escaped without serious injuries.

LaValle is a graduate of Harvard and is widely known in America and Europe as a portrait painter. He married Miss Virginia Wilson, daughter of a prominent Cincinnati family, in 1932, after the death of his first wife, mother of his four children.

Damage to the four-story brick house was estimated by firemen at $25,000.

Starts Trials Today

Paris, May 7 (AP).—The super-liner Normandie, France's hope for queen-ship of the seas, today started speed trials after satisfactory tests of steering and performance under adverse weather conditions. The big liner makes its initial voyage late this month.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 7 (AP).—Florida is going after some of the divorce business which ordinarily would go to Reno or Arkansas.

The legislature has just approved a measure which allows filing divorce proceedings after 30 days' residence in the state, instead of a year.

Supporters of the measure say the governor will sign it.

The bill was introduced by Rep. M. M. (Jack) Frost, who said Florida would profit by allowing many who would come for the winter season to have their holiday and at the same time obtain a divorce.

Grounds for divorce in Florida include mental cruelty, adultery, violent and unmanageable temper and desertion for one year.

Pulitzer Prize Drama Selection Polls Sharp Criticism and Retorts

Statement That "The Old Maid" Was Novel Transferred To Stage Recalls "Green Pastures" As Having Been Adapted.

NOW IN NOVEMBER

Miss Josephine Johnson, 24, Wins Novel Award; Poetry and Journalism Gifts.

New York, May 7 (AP).—A blast of criticism sounded today in the wake of the announcement of the year's Pulitzer prize play, "The Old Maid", by Zoe Akins.

The drama, adapted from a story by Edith Wharton, was chosen by the advisory board of the Columbia School of Journalism as the best American play of 1934.

Clayton Hamilton, who resigned last year after serving 16 years on the Pulitzer drama jury, said the board had passed up the "finest play of this year and of many years."

"The Children's Hour"—for a play which "is not original and which is merely the transference of a novel to the stage."

In Hollywood, Miss Akins replied: "I'm not interested in discussing this. However, in all fairness, I must point out that 'The Green Pastures' (1930 Pulitzer prize winner) also was an adaptation."

Miss Akins gave full credit to Mrs. Wharton for the inspiration for the play.

"Certainly she deserves as many bouquets as I," she said. "The character in her story was my inspiration for my exceptional quality the play possessed."

The drama winner was announced by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, last night, along with the Pulitzer awards in other fields. Women received two other major literary prizes.

First Novel Wins

A first novel, "Now in November," by Josephine Winslow Johnson, 24-year-old Missourian, was given the $1,000 award for literature and 23-year-old Audrey Wurdemann of Seattle won the $1,000 poetry prize for her volume, "Bright Ambush."

The $1,000 prize for the best example of a reporter's work went to William H. Taylor, New York Herald Tribune sports writer, for his stories on the America's Cup yacht races last September.

The prize for the best American biography went to Douglas S. Freeman, editor of the Richmond (Va.) News Leader for his four-volume work, "R. E. Lee." David S. Muxey received honorable mention for his, "James C. Blaine."

A prize of $500 went to Arthur Krook of the New York Times for his Washington dispatches.

Hamilton Cites Will

In his criticism of the drama award, Hamilton said the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer decreed that the prize be awarded for the "original American play" that best represents the educational value and power of the stage.

"Miss Akins herself very likely would be the last to claim that this is an original play," Hamilton said in a radio speech. "The characters were created by Miss Wharton, the atmosphere was created by Miss Wharton, and the emotions and sentiments were worked out by Miss Wharton."

Other plays "neglected" by the advisory board, he said, were "Stevendore," "Accent on Youth" and "The First Legion."

Miss Akins, who was born in Humana, Mo., is a veteran playwright, having written such successes as "Declasse," in which Ethel Barrymore starred, and "The Greeks Had a Word for It."

Miss Johnson lives in a country home near Webster, Mo., suburb of St. Louis. Although "Now in November" is her first novel, she has had a number of short stories and some poems published. She has a second novel partly written. She was born at Kirkwood, Mo., June 10, 1910.

Audrey Wurdemann, the poetry winner, is the wife of Joseph Auslander, poet and lecturer. She is a graduate of the University of Washington.

Mrs. JAMES WALLINGTON DIES OF PERITONITIS TODAY

New York, May 7 (AP).—Mrs. James Wallington, wife of one of the best known radio announcers, died today in St. Mary's Hospital, Brooklyn, of peritonitis. Mrs. Wallington entered the hospital last February 1, and underwent 20 blood transfusion operations before succumbing to the ailment.

Mrs. Wallington was Anita Furman, a dancer. She and Wallington were married last August 18, following a romance that began backstage at the Radio City Music Hall when both were on the program.

Her home was in Bayville, Long Island.

With That Name

Rome, May 7 (AP).—Gen. Victor De-saia, French air minister, will come to Rome Thursday to lay the ground-work for an Anglo-French air pact. Responsible Italian quarters today described the proposed bilateral treaty as an offshoot of the "Air Accord" projected among England, Germany, France, Italy and Belgium.

Supreme Court's Ruling On Railroad No Verdict On Social Security Plan

Brighams Will Resume Manufacture of Brick

Richberg Voices Confidence in Re-half of Administration Today; President Roosevelt Begins a Study of Decision.

PROJECTS READY

Ickes Says Relief Will Start as Soon as President Approves Works Projects.

Washington, May 7 (AP).—Donald Richberg, chairman of the NRA board, informed congressional leaders today that he felt the supreme court's decision against the railroad retirement act had cast no serious doubts on the constitutionality of the administration's social security program.

President Roosevelt, meanwhile, began a study of the decision to ascertain if another railway pension bill could be prepared which would be upheld.

There were reports that an effort would be made to get around the supreme court decision by basing new legislation on the federal taxing power rather than the right to regulate interstate commerce.

Richberg talked with Democratic leaders of the house ways and means committee, which originated the security bill and put it through the house without change.

Asked whether he, personally, thought the court decision created any doubt about the security bill, Doughton told newspapermen after the meeting:

"I wouldn't think so, but I can't tell. Of course, I'm not a lawyer."

Richberg, however, was said to have expressed his opinion more forcibly. One committee member said this privately to a newspaperman:

"The fact that we're not going to do anything about it ought to be a good enough indication that we're not worried about the constitutionality of the social security bill."

Ickes' Assurance

Assurance was given today by Secretary Ickes that work on a number of projects under the $4,000,000,000 relief program would be started as soon as they were approved by President Roosevelt.

A meeting at the White House of the allotment advisory committee, headed by Ickes, was called for this afternoon to consider projects. He said recently $100,000,000 of PWA projects were ready for consideration under the new set-up.

Ickes, added at a press conference that Mayor LaGuardia of New York city would represent the United States Conference of Mayors on the allotment committee. No representatives of organized labor, the American Bankers Association, and farm organizations have yet been announced.

"I don't know what that means," was Ickes' only comment on the provision in an executive order issued yesterday by President Roosevelt, giving Harry L. Hopkins the duty of supervising inspection of all work projects.

Ickes said he would continue to investigate applications for PWA projects through his decentralized organization, and that his division of investigation, headed by Louis R. Glavis, also would check on PWA construction.

Mrs. Hannah Bray Dies

Utica, N. Y., May 7 (AP).—Funeral services were planned today for Mrs. Hannah Fahey Bray, 81, mother of Lieutenant Governor M. William Bray, who died at her home here last night after a short illness. She contracted a severe cold and pneumonia developed a few days ago. Lieut. Governor Bray, who yesterday cancelled all his official engagements in order to be with her, was at the bedside. A native of Chateaugay, in northern New York, she raised her family on a farm and moved to Utica in 1914 after the death of her husband.

Duke of Richmond Dies

Goodwood, Chichester, England, May 7 (AP).—Lord Charles Henry Gordon-Lennox, Duke of Richmond, died today at the age of 41. He was twice a duke, possessing besides the title of Duke of Richmond those of the Duke of Gordon and the Duke of Albany, the latter a French title. He was one of the largest landowners in the country. Lord Charles' legs were paralyzed as a result of wounds received in World War service.

A Matter of Faith

Mount Vernon, N. Y., May 7 (AP).—It's getting to be a habit with W. H. Stewart—a hole-in-one on the ninth at the Stuyvesant Country Club. "King a mule," No. 5, he dropped the ball 150 yards into the cup yesterday while playing in a threesome. The new member remained the modest Mr. Stewart, that 26 years ago he had made the very same hole in one drive.

Mc Gee Granted Stay

Jefferson City, Mo., May 7 (AP).—Governor Guy B. Park today granted Walter Mc Gee, kidnaper of Miss Mary Mc Elroy, scheduled to be hanged in Kansas City Friday, a stay of execution until Nov. 31.

Help For Fletcher Boy

Bridgeport, Conn., May 7 (AP).—Old friends are rallying to the aid of Peter W. Zimindak, 22-year-old butcher boy, charged with writing extortion letters to five prominent residents of Connecticut at New York city. It was disclosed today. The youth, who freely admitted, "I did it and I will take the rap," when he was arraigned last week before the United States commissioner here, has received a telegram from the Rev. Fred Crowland, pastor of the Lutheran Church, at Avenue P and 12th avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., offering to help. W. I. Evans, teacher of the Bible class at the church also has offered assistance.

To Open New Lunch Room

The store at 648 Broadway, which formerly housed Max's Lunch Bar, has been taken over by Frank Carpenter and Harold and Kellie Christians, who will run a restaurant under the name of the C. & C. Lunch. The new owners, formerly with the Taylor Grill, have had the place thoroughly renovated and equipped it with modern fixtures. They will open up Wednesday evening.

Home Environment
Best for Blind Child

Ithaca, N. Y., May 7—Mothers and the home environment won hands down today at the opening of the two-day session at Cornell University, Ithaca. The conference held on the care and treatment of blind children from infancy to school age is under the auspices of the New York State Commission for the Blind, and the Cornell University Nursery School. It is being attended by leading social workers and educators in the care and education of the blind, from Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut.

In session today the experts agreed that normal family life offers the young pre-school blind child more stimulation for normal development than institutional care. "Normal play with brothers and sisters under the home environment encourages the blind child to overcome his handicap," declared Miss Grace Harper, who as assistant commissioner of the State Department of Social Welfare of New York state, is an authority on the education of the blind. In fact, it was said yesterday that it is largely through Miss Harper's initiative that emphasis is now being put on keeping the blind child within the home rather than segregating him from infancy in state institutions.

When seen yesterday, Miss Harper gave her belief that state funds now largely used for institutional care should provide home teachers for and to parents.

In her talk today Miss Harper gave advice that is valuable to parents of any handicapped child. "Nothing can replace what the daily life within the family naturally affords a child in the way of stimuli and emotional values. Whatever is substituted for the family can replace it only inadequately. If during a child's entire period of growth, he has always been only among other children, he is certain to have a different personality from that of a child who has known the freedom of family life."

In closing Miss Harper said, "The effective way to instruct the blind child to the third year of his life is to demonstrate actively to him—show how it is done, and wait quietly and see whether he is ready to imitate." At the age of four years she advocates a nursery school under trained educators.

With Dr. Ethel Waring of the Cornell University Nursery School, Miss Harper was responsible for the calling of the present two-day conference. Its objective is to discuss methods of inaugurating an educational program for parents of blind children within the home.

MODENA

Modena, May 7—The annual Arbor Day exercises which were planned for Friday afternoon of last week, were postponed to Monday afternoon on account of stormy weather.

The Modena-Highland baseball teams held a game on the Modena diamond Sunday afternoon, when six innings were played; score, 2-0, in favor of Modena. The game was called off on account of stormy weather. The Modena team will go to Cornwall Sunday afternoon, May 12, to play the Cornwall Giants.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, May 7—A delicious spring supper was served Thursday night by members of the Lydian Society. Proof of its excellence was the fine attendance, for over 100 were present. Macaroni, baked beans, cold meat, gelatin and several kinds of cakes and salads were served. Participants expressed their appreciation with generous contributions, and left hoping that there would be many more such delicious meals given by the Lydian Society.

Summer has at last come to Woodstock, for Joseph Friedburg has returned from New York for another season here.

Irwin Greenwood spent the week-end here with his family.

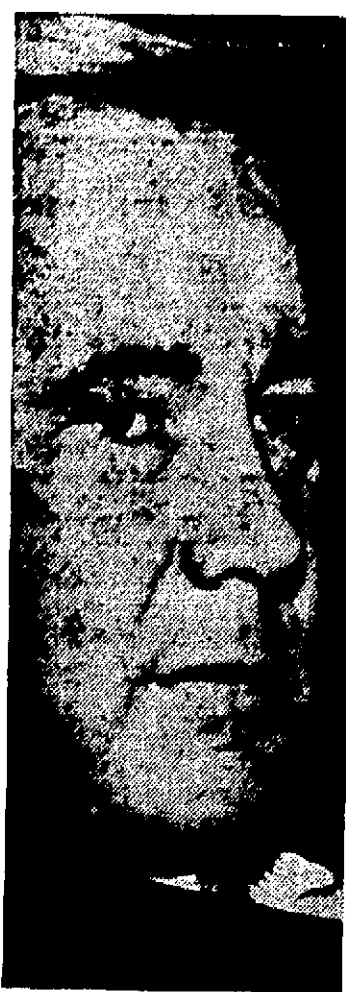

Marjorie Striebel is the first of the group set to return to Woodstock for the summer. She is impatiently awaiting the arrival of the rest who will begin to appear soon.

Yasuo Kunitoshi is now the owner of a brand new Ford V-8.

The Morris Doremus have purchased a new car.

During the five years of the depression, more than $12,000,000,000 was paid to life insurance beneficiaries and policyholders. Figures supplied by the National Association of Life Underwriters reveal.

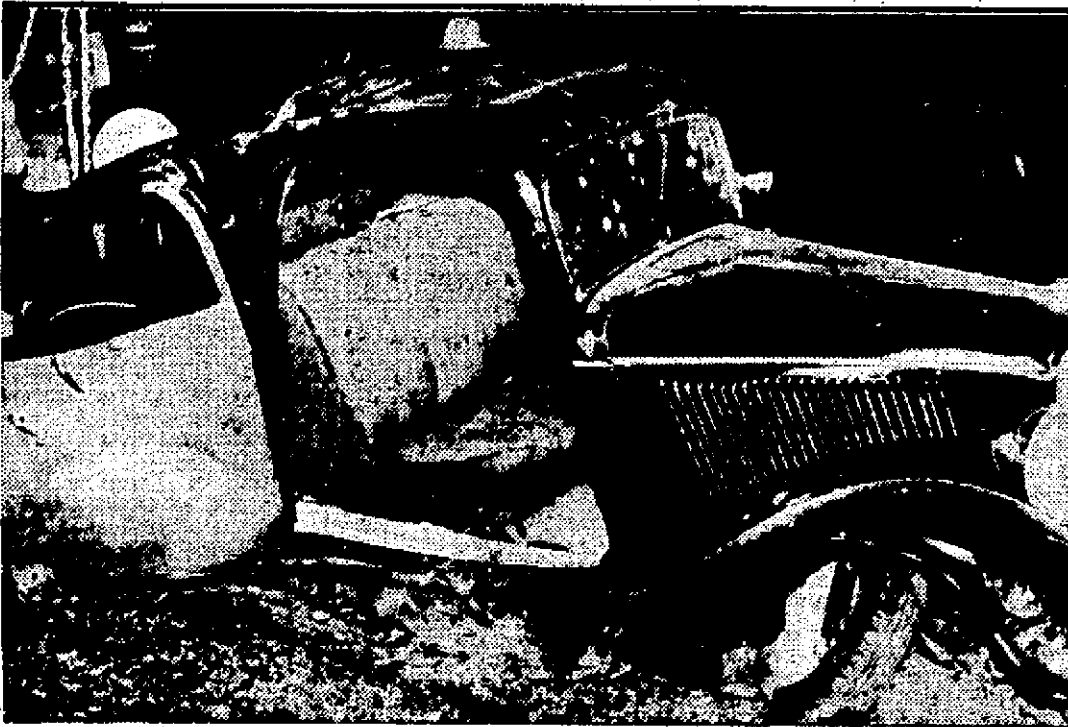

Cutting Dies In Midwest Plane Crash

Senator Bronson M. Cutting (left), New Mexico liberal republican, was killed when the twin-motored passenger plane in which he was riding crashed in a pasture near Atlanta, Mo. The map indicates where the Transcontinental & Western Air ship fell in rugged country after flying over Kansas City. Harvey Bolton (top, right), pilot, also was killed, as were two others, Richard Wallace (lower right), one of Hollywood's most prominent film directors, was injured. (Associated Press Photos)

JACKIE COOGAN'S FATHER AND YOUNG PAL KILLED

"FELT MISERABLE MOST OF THE TIME"

Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Checked Her Constipation*

Read Mrs. Marsden's letter: "I have been a subject of constipation for the last 11 years. I felt miserable and irritable most of the time. My husband is a manager of a chain store. He said 'Why don't you try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN!'"

"ALL-BRAN helped me right away. I have taken it now for the past 5 months, and I am as regular as a clock. My health is fine, and I am full of pep."—Mrs. Charles Marsden, 681 Merrick St., Detroit, Mich.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than taking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Fishermen May Use 15 Hooks on Each Line

Albany, N. Y., May 7. (AP)—Fishermen now may use 15 hooks on their lines while fishing in New York streams, the State Conservation Department said today in outlining legislation passed by the 1935 session of the legislature and approved by Governor Herbert H. Lehman.

The hooks may be used in any combination and the fisherman must be in attendance while the lines are in the water, the department said.

Another important change listed by the department was one eliminating the necessity of securing a special license to take dogs into the Adirondacks or Catskill parks or forest inhabited by deer. Dogs are not permitted to run at large in these regions, however, the department said.

Other changes included making of the open season on cottontail rabbits on Long Island from November 1, to December 31.

Establishing the open season on varying hares throughout the state from the last Monday in October to January 31 except on Long Island where the open season shall be from November 1, to December 31.

UNIQUE FOUNTAIN PEN REPAIR SERVICE HERE.

A very unique service has been inaugurated at the O'Reilly Stationery Stores in the fountain pen repair department. This service eliminates the many inconveniences resulting when a person who has occasion to use a pen very much must leave his pen to be repaired and go without one until his own is returned. Now at both the O'Reilly stores, a pen may be left to be repaired and a substitute pen is supplied which may be used until the original pen is ready for service. Every tool that is used in fountain pen repairing is available to the repair departments and any accident that can happen to a pen can be remedied without any inconveniences.

Travels Toward Bahia

Rio De Janeiro, May 7. (AP)—Marques Dos Reis, minister of communications, traveled toward storm-stricken Bahia today to survey the damage caused by the furious gales of the last week. Estimates received thus far have placed the number of dead at 490 with at least 2,000 made homeless.

NATIONALISTIC NAMES

Parents of children now studying geography must feel bewildered now and then by the place names. The youngsters talk about. It has been quite a while since St. Petersburg became Leningrad, after a period of being Petrograd. But that was only a beginning. Lately, name-changing has spread everywhere until it is becoming a nuisance. There is Persia which has recently gone back to its ancient name of Iran. There is Mesopotamia which now expects to be referred to as Iraq. The Irish Free State says its right name is Eireann, though that hasn't yet been put across with the postal authorities here. Americans have grown accustomed to Cohn and Oslo, though they sometimes confuse them with a couple of other cities. Athina is still so new as to seem quite impossible. Praha for Prague may be endured, we don't talk about the place much.

What's the big idea, anyway? It is another phase of the extreme nationalism which has swept the world. Countries have a right to call themselves anything they please, but insisting that Anglicized names be dropped and maps in English-speaking countries be altered to match the native names and spelling is going pretty far. It may be a little flattering to American tourists who have seen the native names on postcards and railroad signs, but it is annoying to everybody else.

That Body of Yours

HAY FEVER

While most cases of hay fever occur in the early autumn there are many cases which occur in the spring and summer months.

It is generally admitted that the tendency to hay fever is inherited but why it attacks just one in every 6 persons is hard to understand.

In addition to this hereditary or nervous tendency it is thought that deformities of the nose and throat are also a factor in a number of cases. Many physicians believe that fatigue and lowered resistance are also causes, yet individuals in the best of health after a real rest and vacation with a needed gain in weight have only to come in contact with certain pollens from plants or trees to have the usual attack.

This ailment has sometimes been called "seasonal" pollen fever because it is due to pollens in the air. There is, first, the Spring type almost always due to tree pollens—oak, birch, maple, hickory, elm; second, the Summer type due to grasses, timothy, June grass, orchard grass, red top, sweet vernal, plantain; third, the Autumn type due almost always to ragweed pollen.

The symptoms are familiar to everybody—itching of nose and throat with violent sneezing, itching of eyelids, redness and soreness of the eyelids, tears flowing, dread of light, mucous from nose, ears stuffy, and a forehead headache.

Naturally with these symptoms present the patient often becomes weak, irritable, depressed, loses his appetite and is often unable to sleep. The best treatment is likewise known to everybody; that is getting away from regions where the pollen is plentiful. This, of course, is impossible for the majority of people.

The correction of any nose and throat conditions—sprays, enlarged turbinates and tonsils, infected sinuses—should be the first step.

The second step is the desensitizing of the patient by the type of pollen that is causing the symptoms. This is done by injecting the pollen extracts under the skin 2 to 3 months before the expected attack. The injections are given once or twice a week, the dose being gradually increased. This may have to be done for two or three years before results are obtained.

Local applications containing ephedrine or epinephrine—adrenalin—to the eyes and nose, either as drops in the eye or sprays or jellies up the nose, give considerable relief and permit the patient to be about and at work.

ENEMY'S KISS

Chapter Eight
THE INITIALS

ALISON turned the key in the lock; there were no blankets on the bed, and she did not address but took off her blouse and skirt, her shoes and stockings and piled all four of the pillows in their grey ticking under her head.

The room, small and square was furnished in a strange, old-fashioned way, with heavy pieces of mahogany all to match, and an engraving of Queen Victoria's coronation occupying the place of honor over the mantelpiece.

Alison, used to the fresh, modern rooms at school or to her own luxurious room in London found it queer, as she settled down under the coat—as queer as the thought that she should be going to bed in a strange house, with a strange dog by her side and an unknown young man for her sole company.

Queer and, in spite of her anxiety for her father, just a little thrilling.

She had never had any adventure before in her life; her days had had an ordered smoothness, almost dullness, and even her travelling had been done in comfort, either with her father or someone to meet her and to see her off. She wondered what her father would say to it when he did come. And she thought of Guy Western with growing approval.

He was nice; also liked the way he spoke, the rather firm, deep voice—refreshing after a year abroad and the excitable tones of foreigners.

Alison, curling sleepily down under her thick coat, thought "I do like him. Guy Western. Guy's nice. He looks like that somehow. Not like Bob or Charles—not even like Philip or John—Western. I wonder how he spells it—r, n, o, w, e, s, t, e, r, n."

She felt Gaffer's tall thumb and put down a hand to pat him; the big dog wriggled ingratiatingly up, snuggled against her and swooping a large red tongue across her hand. Blinking down at him, Alison noticed his collar and, in a spasm of curiosity, leaned over to read the brand name.

"Gaffer"—then two initials and a telephone number.

Only the initials were G. L.

The man who had left her went slowly downstairs and through the empty house, listening intently, looking into every corner as he went. But there was no sound. He opened the drawing room door, walked across and drew the curtains, then sitting at the desk, tried the top drawer of three. It was locked.

He sighed. He took out a penknife, slid it in between the drawer and the desk, and began steadily and with an increasing pressure, to force open the lock.

ALISON woke with a start. For a moment it seemed to her as if she were back in the train with the steady beat of wheels under her ear. The next she met two exploring dark eyes fixed on her, and located the beating noise as the thrashing of Gaffer's thick tail on the bare boards.

At the sleepy invitation of her extended hand, the dog jumped on the bed, wriggling delightedly and asking her in the clear language which all sleepers use to wake up and take some notice.

Alison sat up. The rain had stopped; pale watery sunlight was leaking through the wooden slats of the green blind and she had the impression which sometimes comes immediately on waking, that she had overslept.

She glanced at her watch, then remembered that the glass had got broken on the journey and that it had stopped. She slid out from under her coat, feeling a little stiff, drew up the blind and staring open the window, looked out.

The blue haze of an autumn morning was just lifting; soon by daylight the Croft House had dropped its mystery and had become just a house set in a sloping garden, with a few old trees glowing red and gold on one side, a dismantled tennis court below and beyond a low fence, high green down which rolled away towards a valley.

Even the room, seen by daylight, had no ghostly corners but was merely a rather shabby bedroom which badly needed redecoration.

She picked up her coat, put it on, opened the locked door and peeped out to be met by an overpoweringly delicious scent. Until that minute she had not realized how hungry she was or how good the smell of frying bacon could be.

The passage was empty, she ran along it, through the back door, into the bathroom.

Small and white, with sunlight playing on the chromium taps, it was hard to believe that she had stood there in terror only a few hours ago. No grey border lurked now in the glass as she splashed the clear, cold water on her face.

The road outside looked ordinary, macadamized and safe; the black dark had given place to a green rise of downs crowned by a sweep of sky dotted with fleecy clouds. To her sleep-drooping senses, the idea of ghosts seemed palpably absurd.

Washed, dressed and powdered, she followed the alluring scent of bacon into the kitchen.

"Hello!"

"Hello. How on earth?"

The oil-stove was burning; he was standing by it, frying-pan in hand. A shiny new kettle was singing on one flame, a rack of fresh toast browning on the other, while the deal table had been set out neatly with plates and cups for two.

"Hungry?"

"Starving!"

He surveyed the arrangements complacently.

"Not too bad?"

"Marvelous." Alison sniffed appreciatively. "But how did you do it?"

"Quite simple. Early this morning, as soon as it was light, I walked back into Wexley and picked up my car; also the bacon, etc. I thought you'd better eat before you traveled." With a triumphant flourish he laid a plate of eggs and bacon in front of her, added a brown tea-pot and tin of milk. "How's that?"

"Perfect!"

Sitting opposite to her at the other end of the deal table, he looked refreshingly normal, just a large young man, rumped dark hair, twinkling blue eyes and an unshaven, cheerful face. Alison felt ashamed of the suspicions which she had harbored the night before. After all, he might have borrowed the collar—or the dog!

"Sleep well?"

"Wonderfully," she assured him. "But I do feel a selfish brute. You must be horribly tired. I'm afraid."

"Oh, I get a good many late nights one way and another," he said lightly. "I'd quite a peaceful one actually. No alarms of any kind. And I think I've solved the mystery."

"Oh? How?"

"Going out this morning I found a long ladder's ladder up against the roof. Your ghostly friend may have climbed out through the attic skylight."

"But would Gaffer?"

"Not if he lurked up there until you'd gone to bed."

"I expect you've hit it," agreed Alison. "But I'm glad I didn't know that last night!"

"Don't worry. He's miles away by this time. You probably frightened him more than he frightened you. More tea?" He slid Alison's cup, bent to pat Gaffer as he added "Any way, one thing's sure. He wasn't a ghost."

"Oh? Why?" She could not see his face as he stooped but noticed a sudden red flush spreading above his tennis collar.

"Because I found someone had been at the desk in the drawing room. Have a look when you're finished breakfast. I don't know if he's taken anything but he's certainly broken all the drawers open."

"Some poor wretch of a tramp," she suggested.

"That's about it," he agreed. "By the way, there's been no word from your father."

"I can't understand it," Alison frowned, wrinkling up her little nose as she always did when she was apprehensive. "You don't think there can've been an accident?"

"You'd have heard by now. As a matter of fact, there's been some sort of mistake for I asked a few questions in Wexley, while I was shopping, and no one there seems to have heard of Mr. Goss. They say that people who lived here were called Graham and before that there was a very old old man and his wife who called themselves Potter." Was there a slightly unnatural inflection in that casual tone?

Tomorrow, Gaffer adds another note.

WEXLEY SMITH'S NEWS ARE STILL IN THE LEAD.

For the second successive week the pea of Rhode Island Red hens entered by Wexley Smith of Sangerfield in the State 4-H egg laying test, has led the contest. During the 25th week of the contest the five birds laid 32 eggs and during the 26th week they laid 31 eggs, an average of more than six eggs a week for each bird.

During the 26th week the peas of George Schneider and Carl Mikula, both of St. Remy, stood second and third, respectively, giving Ulster county first, second and third places for that week.

Carl Mikula of St. Remy has the best record to date for the 26 weeks. His five birds have laid 733 eggs, scoring 332 points to stand second in the contest. Schneider's pea stands sixth to date with 524 eggs and 528 points, while Mikula's stands fifth with 536 eggs and 533 points. In the list of ten high individuals to date, Ulster County 4-H Club members have four birds. George Schneider's number 4 stands in 34th position with 163 points; Carl Mikula has the other three Ulster county birds in the high ten standing, respectively, sixth, seventh and eighth, with records between 157 and 164 points per bird.

The pea entered by Wexley Smith is sponsored by the Sangerfield Lions Club and Schneider's pea is sponsored by L. J. Kander of New Paltz.

WEST ESOPUS.

West Esopus, May 6.—Miss Martha Veiker, formerly of Port Jervis, has returned to Pennsylvania, where she is now residing. Miss Veiker spent the month of April with her mother and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Wills.

Wilson S. LeFevre of St. Albans is spending the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. LeFevre.

Mrs. R. Kautz is recovering from her recent illness.

It began to look as if our grandchildren may be able to see horses with their own eyes. Last year the nation set record $100,000.000 from the largest tree planting in history. And the work seems to be just getting a good start.

Talks to parents

Taking Stock
By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Every so often Mr. and Mrs. Brown sit down together to talk over money matters and household budgeting. Or they walked over their acre and a half planning new flower-beds or discussing shrubs and trees which they might one day plant. At regular intervals, too, they went out with the pruning shears and lopped off dead branches or trained up unruly vines.

Somewhat they never considered doing the same thing for their children. These "just grew." Their parents were kind and interested, but seemed to have no concerted plan of action, no unified ideal of how to bring them up.

An office management is forced to pay more attention to its personnel than the average parents do to organization of their children's training. A father from one background and a mother from another may have very different views on discipline and conduct. The mother may dream of daughters who are independent and able to take care of themselves while the father may hope for clinging vines. Certainly the child's preparation for life would be more adequate did they seek identical ends.

It would be an excellent thing if parents sometimes sat down together to consult about their children and take stock of what has and has not been accomplished. Mary is lazy and needs to be encouraged to work. How can it be done? John is getting into undesirable company. How can we best face the problem? The baby cries too much. Obviously it is being spoiled somewhere along the line. Perhaps the mother is too yielding, perhaps the father. Unless, however, they act in unison the habit of crying cannot be overcome, for each one undoes what the other has accomplished.

Sundown Stories

Big Chief Eagle
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WILLY NILLY was so excited he didn't know what to do. The ducks were quack-quacking. Rip was barking, the bears were growling. Top Notch was cackling and looking at himself in his little mirror.

Christopher Columbus Crow was flying in the direction from which came the sounds, and Sweet Face, the lamb, was bleating:

"Baa-baa. I'm afraid. We never had Indians in our meadow."

"We never had Indians here," said Willy Nilly. "I'm sure we must be mistaken. I do believe that some children from one of the neighboring villages are off on a long hike, and are playing Indian."

"They sound like real Indians to me," growled Jolly Bear. "I think I must be right. My great, great, great, great grandfathers and grandmothers lived in the country in the days when Indians lived on the plains, in the forests, along the shores of lakes."

The sounds were coming closer and closer. Cries and whoops and shouts filled the air and Christopher came flying back with all the strength of his magnificent black wings.

"They're Indians," he cried excitedly. "They really are, and they are coming this way. They'll be here in another moment."

And scarcely had the Puddle Muddlers heard what Christopher Columbus Crow had to say before they saw, along the rough roads of Puddle Middle, a number of Indians with one in the lead who now cried out:

"Big Chief Eagle is coming!"

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—The senate's report on parliamentary procedure—Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri—has taken the field to try something older and more experienced senators have attempted and failed.

He is out to curb the tongue of Huey Long of Louisiana while he is on the floor of the senate.

Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, has resorted to everything from trying to outbawl the Louisiana "kingfish" to personal invective without any measurable success. The withering sarcasm of Glass of Virginia has been unavailing. The attempts of a half-dozen others have been as futile.

The robust young Senator Clark, however, son of the former speaker of the house under Wilson's administration, would go about it in a different way.

His plan is to "crack down" on Huey once and for all by changing the rules of the senate.

Would Protect President
SPECIFICALLY, Clark, for four years parliamentarian of the house, parliamentarian of the democratic national convention in 1916 and compiler of several manuals on parliamentary law, would rewrite Rule 19 to include the president so that the chief executive could be protected from unwarranted attacks and slanders. Rule 19 reads at present:

"No senator in debate shall, directly or indirectly, by any form of words impute to another senator or to other senators any conduct or motive unworthy or unbecoming a senator."

He would also take a leaf from the rules book of the house governing the question of personal privilege—one of Huey's favorite springboards for plunging into an attack on his political foes.

In the house when a member feels he has been aggrieved he must explain exactly how he has been injured before he is permitted to speak. The Speaker decides whether or not his injury is justified.

Glass Also Would Act
CLARK is not alone in turning to parliamentary tactics to silence Long. Senator Glass is entertaining such a plan himself.

Glass' recommendation is to require that all amendments offered to an appropriation bill be germane. Such a requirement would affect other senators, but Glass' move admittedly is directed against Long.

The senate is jealous and slow to change its rules. It may be, however, that since other methods have failed to discipline Huey, senators may find it necessary to attempt drastic methods.

STONE RIDGE

Stone Ridge, May 7.—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sellner are glad to welcome them back to Stone Ridge after spending the winter in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hunt of Tillson were entertained on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guttorm Nilsson.

The teachers of school district No. 5, Ward Hutchins and Miss Alberta Davis, and their pupils went for a May Day outing on Friday afternoon. They walked across fields into Mr. Hardenberg's woods where they picked flowers and studied them. On their return home they were caught in a shower which added to the enjoyment of the afternoon. The older pupils went to the schoolhouse to get dry and Miss Davis invited the primary department to her home and served hot cocoa and cookies.

Miss Ethel Beatty entertained over the week-end her friend, Miss Elizabeth Saulpaugh, of Kingston.

Those from this place who attended the minarels given at Olive Bridge on Friday evening by home talent reported a most enjoyable evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Sanger Carlton gave a dinner party on Saturday evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Guy McCorkle and Dr. and Mrs. Stewart of Montclair, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens of this place. Mrs. Demetrius France assisted with the serving.

Mrs. Joseph Pratt is welcomed back to Stone Ridge after spending the winter with relatives in Florida.

All are sorry to hear Mrs. L. Houghtaling is in the hospital at Albany where she expects to undergo an operation in the near future.

Conrad and David Strivings were week-end guests of relatives at New Hurley.

The many friends of George Weeks are glad to hear that he is again able to resume his duties at the Napanoch Reformatory, after being confined to his home a week with grip.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith and daughter, Paula, of Kingston, called on friends in this place on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. A. Grier has returned to her family in this place after spending the winter in New York with Mr. and Mrs. Hollister Sturgess.

Miss Ruth Van Demark was an overnight guest on Friday of Miss Zella Sahler.

Mr. and Mrs. Berton Delemeter and son were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Delemeter.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wagar attended the funeral of Mrs. Kenneth Peck at Kingston on Saturday morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

The trustees of the library ask that all who are interested in the library patronize the rummage sale at the library on Wednesday, the proceeds of which will go for new books and necessary improvements to the library building. Miss Della Clark and Mrs. William Hasbrouck will be in charge of the sale.

GREAT MOTHERS
Margaret Isabella Balfour Stevenson

SIX-YEAR-OLD Robert Louis Stevenson and not yet learned how to write fiction one day an uncle announced he would give a prize to that one among his nieces and nephews who did the best essay on Mom.

"Will you write it down for me?" Robert Louis asked his mother, Margaret Isabella Balfour Stevenson, reply probably influenced the whole life of her delicate little son. Five Sundays she devoted to putting down the story as he told it to her. It won the prize.

"I'm going to be an author!" said Robert Louis. Forty-four years later he was a world figure in literature, and part at least of his success may fairly be attributed to his mother's encouragement and practical aid.

This boy, first Scotsman, child of a strictly orthodox Scots divan, was nineteen when he married and twenty when Robert Louis was born. Sometimes, she seemed more like a sister to him than like a mother.

In his adolescent struggle with his father, who proposed a career at engineering as against Robert Louis' own choice of literature, Margaret Stevenson gave her son sympathy.

Finally, after he had proved his seriousness about writing, it was she who succeeded in getting her husband to make him a regular allowance of two hundred and fifty pounds a year.

Meanwhile he had been in America, and had married Mrs. Fanny Osburn. He took his wife back to Scotland, where she was lovingly and gradually supplanted by the older Mrs. Stevenson. The marriage never disturbed the affectionate relationship between the mother and son.

At length it was decided that the climate of Geneva would help to preserve Stevenson's life. He settled with his family in Vevey, where Margaret Stevenson joined them, adopting her husband's name and style, and of her life in a strange part of the world in 1880, coming back from a visit to Scotland, she traveled to her home over the top of the Great St. Bernard, built by the famous monks in order to help and to assist in the passage of the mountain.

"There on my right side the whole world is looking at us when we go down the mountain," she wrote.

others to whom I cling I have better than all the world besides—my mother."

That December, he was stricken suddenly and died. Margaret Stevenson labored to bury him on the top of Mt. Vesuvius. She survived him two years, and his name was the last her lips uttered.

Events Around The Empire State

Earlville, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Edwin H. Taylor, 83, oldest justice of the peace in Madison county and last surviving Civil War veteran of this village, died last night.

Albany, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Deaths resulting from a collision between a fire truck and a battalion chief's car mounted to three today. The latest victim was Warren H. Kenyon, 53, fireman, who died last night in an Albany hospital of a fractured skull. He had been in a coma since the accident last Saturday. The others killed were Pumper Captain Frank P. Miller, 48, and Fireman Thomas J. Rogers, 60. Five others, including Battalion Chief Maurice Kannah, 63, were injured. Kannah's condition is critical, hospital physicians said.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Only canine member of the "Upside Down Club," Jill, black and white seven months old English setter, today was recuperating at the home of its master, John O. Archibald, in Elma, after an operation for diaphragmatic hernia.

Dr. William L. Welts, veterinary surgeon, who performed the operation aided by three unnamed specialists in abdominal surgery, said he believed it was the first such case involving a dog.

Jill was struck by an automobile two months ago.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Frank G. Williams, a Tuscarora Indian farmer, has a team of horses and farm implements now—thanks to the provisions of the Wheeler-Howard bill.

Williams, first Indian to benefit under the act, borrowed $600 from the government to get the needed animals and tools. He is expected to repay the loan in six annual installments.

Albany, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Red, white and blue placards defining "Americanism" were mailed today to every school principal in the state by John J. Fitzpatrick, state adjutant of the United Spanish War Veterans.

"These are to be displayed in the schools," Fitzpatrick said. The definition follows: "Americanism is an unflinching love of country, loyalty to its institutions and ideals; eagerness to defend it against all enemies; undivided allegiance to the flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity."

MILTON

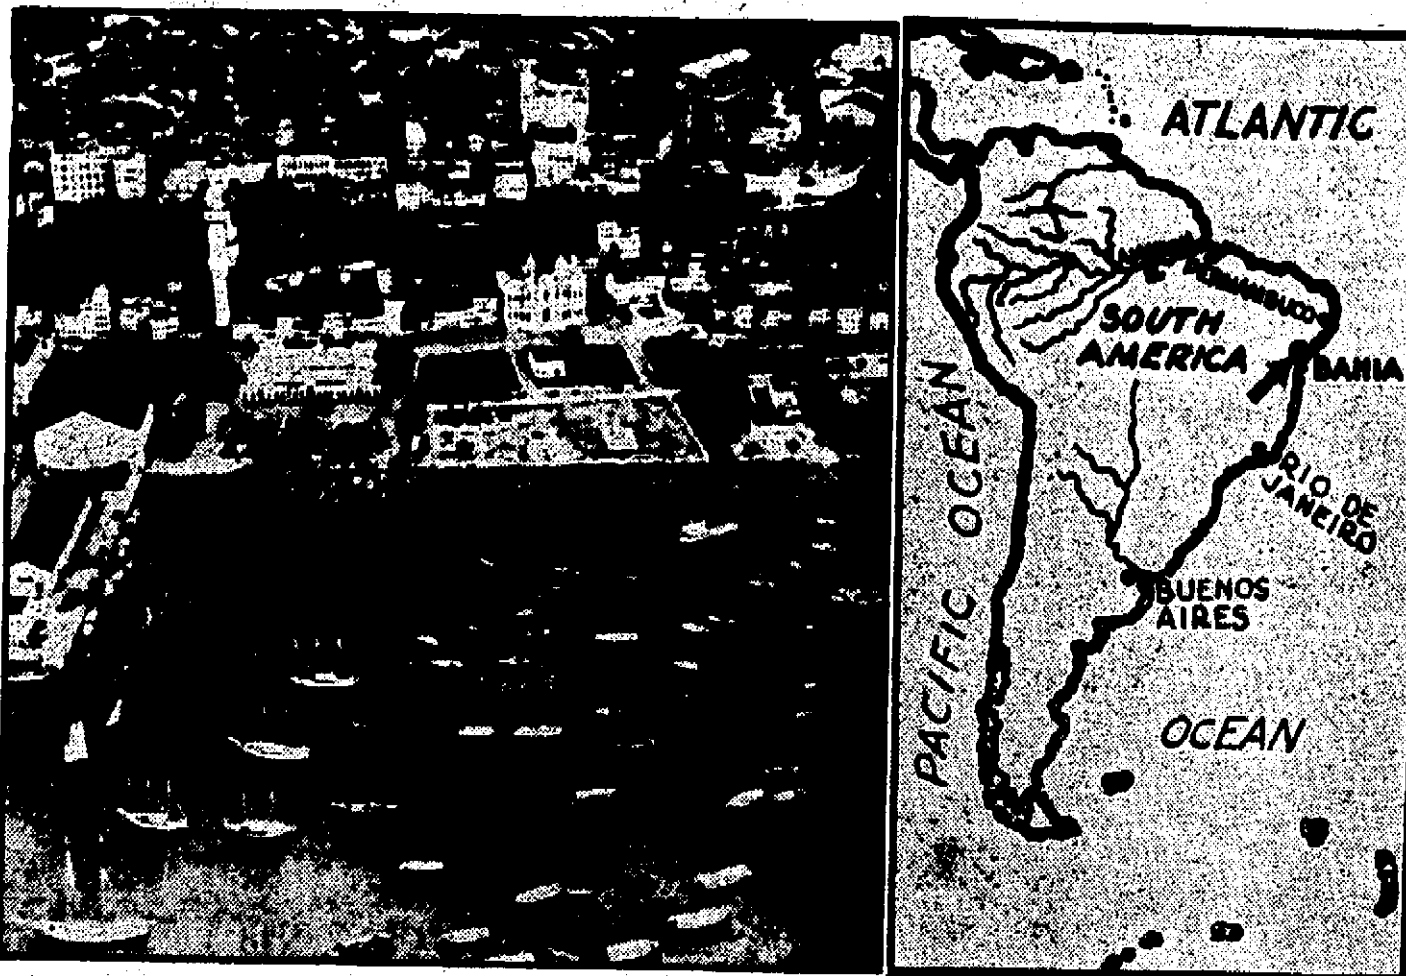

Milton, May 6—Miss Beale Scott, instructor in arts and crafts at Vassar College, has been appointed designer and advisor of industrial arts works for the blind by the New York State Commission for the Blind. She will assume her new duties immediately, while Mrs. Scott Miller continues her place at Vassar. Mrs. Miller has been conducting classes in arts and crafts for teachers in Patchogue, L. I., and Huntington, L. I. Miss Beale Scott and Mrs. Miller are sisters of James Scott, noted artist of Milton. Mrs. Miller's home is on Church street, Milton. Miss Scott organized the department at Vassar in 1929 and taught also in the summer Institute of Euthenics since 1930. By teaching classes in weaving (sponsored by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt) at Hyde Park, and a series of classes (sponsored by the Teachers' Association) in Poughkeepsie, she has introduced her work to a large group. Before she came to Vassar Miss Scott was a supervisor of industrial arts work in the Albany Association of the Blind.

A class of 199 from Milton and Highland were confirmed last Saturday, by the Right Rev. Stephen Donahue, auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of New York. The services took place in St. James Church, Milton, and were attended by a large congregation of high church dignitaries, relatives and friends of those confirmed. Among members of the clergy attending were the Very Rev. Monsignor Henry O'Carroll of Newburgh, the Very Rev. John J. Stanley, dean of Ulster county, the Very Rev. Stephen Donnelly, dean of Dutchess county, the Very Rev. William McCarthy, C. S. R., rector of Ecopus Seminary, the Very Rev. William O'Connor, C. S. R., Ecopus, the Rev. John Moglia of St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie, the Rev. John Fleming, secretary to Bishop Donahue, the Rev. James Hanley of Marlborough, the Rev. Daniel Sant, East Kingston, the Rev. James Heron, West Hurley, the Rev. Joseph Stihar, Walpole, the Rev. William Noonan, Hyde Park, the Rev. Francis McElhenry, Sylvan Lake, the Rev. Joseph Pericova, Poughkeepsie.

The May meeting of the local W. C. T. U. was held Friday afternoon. Mrs. Ernest Bell director of child welfare, had charge of the program. Child Health Day was observed Wednesday, May 1, in the Milton schools. Miss Diana Strachan, town nurse, spoke briefly to the children in each school regarding the need for enough rest and proper food as well as lots of sunshine. Miss Strachan has a considerable program for child health which of course goes straight through the school year. As this day however, has been designated nationally as Child Health Day it seemed fitting to remember it with short talks to the children.

The annual strawberry festival has been planned by the Ladies' Needle Craft Society of the Milton Presbyterian Church to be held at the Presbyterian Church, May 23. Mrs. Oliver Root and Mrs. Grace Hewitt were appointed chairmen to take charge of arrangements. The

HUNDREDS DIE AS TORNADO BATTERS BRAZILIAN CITY

This peaceful two-century-old city, Bahia, Brazil (indicated on map), was the scene of death and destruction as powerful winds swept it without abatement for the sixth straight day. Thousands were made homeless and the death list, already placed at 400, appeared mounting. No word was heard from the interior for days because of broken communication lines. Death and damage was feared great there also. (Associated Press Photo)

June meeting of the society will be held the first Wednesday of the month at the home of Mrs. Grace Hewitt. A handkerchief shower for the coming fair will be had at this meeting.

At the annual meeting of the consolidated school district No. 1 of Milton held Tuesday at the Union Free School on Sands avenue two trustees were elected. One of the trustees elected succeeded Herbert Sears who tendered his resignation following his appointment as supervisor of the town. The second trustee replaced J. Harold Clarke whose term of office had expired. The names of these trustees was not given our correspondent.

The members of the Milton W. C. T. U. will be hostesses to other units of the county, Wednesday, May 8, when the Ulster County W. C. T. U. Institute will be held in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. The meeting opens at 10 a. m. and continues all day. A box lunch will be served at noon and Milton ladies will supply coffee. In the evening supper will be served by the Milton women. The guest speaker at the institute meeting will be Mrs. Belle Shields of Edgewater, N. J., an organizer of the W. C. T. U. There are other speakers listed on the program. During the afternoon session a medal contest will be held. Several children are participating.

Plans for a May supper have been made by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Milton Methodist Church, which will be held in the Methodist Sunday School room, Wednesday evening, May 22. Mrs. Myron Hazen is general chairman in charge of the affair. A committee will assist her with the arrangements. Proceeds from the supper will be used to purchase new utensils for the church kitchen, which has recently been completed.

The first group of the society is planning a benefit picnic to be held early in June. Miss Mary Taber is chairman of the group.

The regular monthly meeting of the Milton Grange was held in the Grange hall Monday evening. Fire and Fire Prevention was the topic of the meeting. In celebration of Founders Day grangers are requested to bring plant roots, bulbs or seeds for a flower mart being conducted by the Service and Hospitality committee. The small charge for exchange of these plants, etc., will constitute the beginning of the fund for the delegates to the Boy Scout Jamboree that the Grange has pledged itself to sponsor.

Mrs. Eula Hallock is visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Richards, of Chatham, N. J. Edgar M. Clarke attended a meeting of the 4-H Club committee held Wednesday at Kingston. A fruit project is being planned by the committee for this year. This is an entirely new project for the 4-H Club.

Mrs. Elsie Hallock of the Milton board of education attended a dinner meeting of the Orange county section of the State School Boards Association held at the Hotel Palentine in Newburgh Tuesday evening. Dr. Bennett presided. State Association secretary Clifford was one of the principal speakers.

A bingo party will be held next Friday evening, May 10, in St. James hall, Milton. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Sarah Hull Hallock Free Library. The party is sponsored by the Males and Matrons Society. Besides bingo, bridge may be enjoyed by those who prefer it.

Mrs. Kate Gillespie of Hackensack, N. J., has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Katherine McCord, the past week.

Eggs Plentiful, No Hens
Every year Egypt exports hundreds of millions of eggs to other countries, yet hens with chicks are almost never seen in Cairo. The explanation is that eggs are artificially hatched by a system that has not changed in 4,000 years. The eggs lie for a while in steaming ashes, deep down in the hatching pits. Later they are put beneath black cupolas of Nile mud, lying on camel dung and covered with palm leaves. The system is so accurate that attendants can tell to the hour when the chicks will hatch.

Liana Merwin

The smartly tailored shirtmaker be worn three ways, making two themes so favored in grown-up fashions has been effectively adapted to new juvenile modes. Note the chic frock on the young miss pictured above, which copies sporty shirt-maker lines without losing the youthful touch.

This two-piece model of natural colored linen is very becoming with broadcloth; the comfortable, collarless tailored collar and bow neckline, less top being styled in double short sleeves, yoke top and action breasted effect with pearl button trim. The bodice front is interestingly pleated. White pearl buttons with short sleeves and round collar trim the top and fasten the front is interchangeable—worn under the sleeveless blouse as a complete outfit.

Sonny wears a novel wash suit fit or as a separate white top with which includes three pieces and can the colored pants.

Household Arts

We admire the antics of the elephant whether he's at the circus, the zoo or on our kitchen towels. And these droll ones—in one or many colors—will be as much fun to embroider as they are to look at. You'll find them easy to do. Make them for that next shower or church bazaar—they'll meet with great approval. There's a towel for each day of the week. In pattern 5222 you will find a transfer pattern of seven motifs averaging 4 1/2 x 10 inches; illustrations of the stitches needed, and material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

mond of East Orange, N. J., visited friends in town on Monday en route to Portsmouth, R. I.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1651-B

Matron's Summer Frock of Sheer Fabric

The pictured model features a becoming neckline above a cape that drapes the shoulders in circular folds. A bow of contrast inserted in butterfly fashion across the front is the one note of trimming.

The addition of sleeves, short and bouffant, give a slightly formal appearance to the silhouette.

The construction of this dress insures long, slenderizing lines because the princess theme is followed. Darts in groups achieve well molded lines and eliminate the necessity for a belt.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1651-B is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material; 1/4 yard 36 or 33 inch contrast.

SEND FOR THE BARBARA BELL PATTERN BOOK. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes selecting designs from the one hundred and four Barbara Bell well planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for little children and the difficult junior age; slenderizing, well cut patterns for the mature figure. KEEP RISING FOOD COSTS DOWN

WITH NORGE ROLLATOR REFRIGERATION

HERE'S THE WAY IT'S DONE:

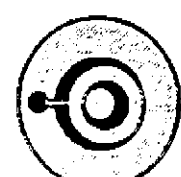

Do you realize how much "hand-to-mouth" buying costs you? Do you realize how much you waste by buying perishable foods in small quantities—buying ice to keep them fresh from day to day?

A Norge Rollator Refrigerator will stop that waste. With a Norge you can take full advantage of every Saturday market bargain—stock up for a week. Thus you not only get the benefit of sale prices, but you have the added advantage of "quantity" specials.

And even that isn't all. Left-overs, which you might now have to throw away, can be saved till you are ready to use them.

With a Norge Rollator Refrigerator you have plenty of space to store foods—plenty of cold to keep them fresh. Waste from spoilage becomes a thing of the past. And because of its unusually efficient mechanism, the Norge uses so little current that you scarcely notice it on your light bills. Rollator Refrigeration saves—according to actual owners' estimates—up to $11 a month in household expense. Many Norge owners report even greater savings.

Now that food prices are mounting, Norge becomes an even greater economy than ever. Come in and let us give you specific facts and figures.

THE ROLLATOR COMPRESSOR... smooth, easy, rolling power instead of the hurried back-and-forth action of the ordinary refrigerator mechanism. Remains more cold for the current used and a mechanism that actually improves with use.

Retired From Circulation.
"They saw you stagger down the street, perhaps, in just a word. You'll indicate into court, just what you think occurred."
"Institutions mark the charge, explain, I'll be too glad.
The reason why I staggered so, my circulation's bad."
"Your malady is not so strange, I have a full report.
The medicine that cures the best is known unto the court."
"We know your circulation's bad. 'Twas noticed by the cop.
So on the docket here I'll say, for thirty days 'twill stop."

May Blossoms. . . It's pretty trying for any woman to spend a lifetime listening to one man brag about himself. . . Few girls are so well that they do not like to be petted. . . One-half of the world seems to be busy at present trying to separate the other half from its coin. . . Another trouble with this country is the number of legal ways there are to steal. . . One thorn of experience is worth a dozen roses of theory. . . You can fool some of the people all the time, and that's the reason we have politicians and demagogues. . . Whatever has become of the old-fashioned "watchdog of the treasury?" . . . In the good old days our congressmen "viewed with alarm," now they alarm with views. . . People still have respect for age. All popular songs are about the "old" something. . . Some people are gnawed by remorse and others are quite sure that nobody saw them. . . In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to what the girl-friend has been thinking of since last June. . . A woman who ought to know says that a well conducted study club is much more inspiring than a husband.

Two sailors were discussing what sort of an animal a heifer was. One claimed it belonged to the pig family; one said it was a variety of sheep. Finally they called the boat-swain. "Dan, what's a heifer—is it a pig or a sheep?" they asked. Dan paused reflectively. Then he said: "To tell you the truth, mates, I dunno much about poultry."

Doctor (called up in middle of night)—What! You can't sleep? Try counting sheep.

Voice—I counted up to one-hundred-and-seven, and then I remembered that was your phone number, so I rang you up.

Despite its many disadvantages, our election system of saying it with ballots still beats the method prevalent in some localities, of saying it with bullets.

All that rugged individualism want in this age is an independent business with which the government will have nothing to do except guarantee the profits.

Germany is offering Lithuania to Poland in exchange for the Polish Corridor and Danzig, which is somewhat as if we offered to give Guatemala to Mexico for Yucatan.

Charles Hitch, Coldwater creek rancher in the Oklahoma panhandle, has seen the drought, dust and depression reduce his cattle herd of the 10,000 head of several years ago to 800, but he says, "I'm not discouraged." Going to Hang-On.
"I made that money in row crops, such as corn and I lost it trying to raise wheat the past 10 years."

"I haven't got a dime left. But the government will stake me for seed if we ever get rain and I'm going to hang on," declares Bryan.

"This country isn't going to burn up and blow away. And boy, when rain comes we are going to raise some real wheat out here again."

To Arrange for Chest Clinics Here

The local health officers have requested Katherine Murphy, Ulster county public health nurse, to assist in the work of arranging three consultation chest clinics at convenient places in the county.

Details regarding the time and place of these clinics will be announced later and physicians will be given admission cards for patients whom they wish to refer.

The State Department of Health has agreed to furnish the services of two expert examiners and an X-ray machine with operator. Although there has been an encouraging decline in the tuberculosis death rate, the disease still assumes an important place in the economic and social life of our people. Like other diseases, its diagnosis is necessary before proper treatment may be instituted. The earlier it is diagnosed, the greater the chance for recovery. Symptoms referable to the chest may be caused by diseases other than tuberculosis. The cause of such symptoms should be determined. In many cases this cannot be done without the assistance of the X-ray. It may be just as important to know that you are not suffering from tuberculosis as it is to know you have the disease.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Mississippi." Twice before has this play been made into a movie by the Paramount Studios, but the added box office magic of Bing Crosby and W. C. Fields was reason enough to screen it once more with sound. Plenty of time was taken to make the show exceptional, the company's best song writers were asked to get creative in a big way, lavish sets were designed, an expensive cast was assembled, money was spent here, there and everywhere in order to assure the picture's success. And out of it all comes a colorful, mildly exciting and often hilarious talkie that tells of the old south and of a southern boy in particular who refuses to fight a duel and who is branded a coward. The southern girl he is engaged to scorns his love so he joins a show boat. While aboard, he accidentally plunges a famous bad man, and because of this the young man is considered the greatest daredevil and killer in all the deep south. Because he sings, he becomes known as "The Singing Killer." Many events transpire before he wins the heroine, and the comedy of W. C. Fields is largely responsible for the play's success. A large cast includes Bing Crosby, Joan Bennett, Fred Kohler, Gail Patrick and Queenie Smith.

Orpheum: "Broadway Bill." The story of a race horse and how he changed the lives of various people is understandingly portrayed in this talkie with Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy co-starring. The excitement is intense during the entire run of the picture, the dramatizing is above average, and the plot is a sure to bring tears. The race scenes are especially good and there are some sparkling comedy moments.

Kingston: "West Point of the Air." Wallace Beery, gentleman aviator and airplane enthusiast in private life, finds himself comfortably at home in the cockpit of his plane during the course of this dramatic film that fairly bursts with the martial spirit, bravery and patriotism. It has the father and son plot structure wherein the father is a grizzled army flight sergeant who sends his son to West Point. The boy comes back, his father's superior officer, and when the boy turns yellow his father takes drastic measures to make a man of him. And all turns out perfectly in the final chapter, with a love interest supplied by the lovely Maureen O'Sullivan. This play will interest all lovers of aviation. It is filled with sky scenes, the hum of throbbing motors, formations, trick flying and a couple realistic and hair raising crashes. The show has no let down but travels swiftly through one spectacular scene after another. A cast of thousands is headed by Wallace

Beery, Robert Young, Lewis Stone, James Gleason and Russell Harrie.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Star of Midnight." Again William Powell does the suave mannerisms of a big city man-about-town, and in the role of a hard drinking, work neglecting private detective, he straightens out the tangled affairs of several lives without undue exertion on his part. Copied closely after "The Thin Man", this sophisticated drama has the same punch, the same clever dialogue, and as much fancy drinking as one could ask for, and it also has the part of Ginger Rogers playing opposite Mr. Powell. The show is one of the most lively of the current talkies, a rather glorified expose of crime and racket. The suspense in this picture is well maintained but it is the acting that puts the show into the better class. Paul Kelly, Ralph Morgan, J. Farrell MacDonald and Leslie Fenton are also featured.

Orpheum: "Rumba" and "Under Pressure." George Raft and Carole Lombard do some smooth stepping in the opening film and the musical score of the film is exceptional. It's the story of a small time dancer and his rise to fame. It lacks realism but it proves to be enjoyable and rhythmic entertainment. "Under Pressure" describes how men work and live in construction work under water and the show is highly dramatic and often humorous in the rough and tumble comedy of Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen.

Kingston: "Love in Bloom" and "In Spite of Danger." The first is a love story set to the music of Gordon and Ravel with Joe Morrison, the screen's new singing sensation, warbling love songs to Dixie Lee, who is Mrs. Bing Crosby in real life. It's mostly about a carnival dancer who wins the boy of her dreams despite the handicap that stands in the way. And George Burns and Gracie Allen furnish the comedy as they stumble and mumble through several hilarious reels to make the film a real laugh treat. "In Spite of Danger" has about every dangerous circumstance in it that a movie could possibly possess, with shootings, crack-ups, races, fights and explosions all thrown in to keep the action moving. The cast offers Wallace Ford and Marian Marsh.

POMPEY HOLLOW TRUSTEE COMES UP FOR RE-ELECTION

Pompey Hollow, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—James N. Armstrong, rural school trustee who thrust this tiny central New York hamlet into the national limelight when he dismissed Teacher Esther DeLee for alleged disrespect to the American flag, comes up for re-election tonight.

The approximately 20 voters of the school district will meet in the one-room school house once presided over by Miss De Lee to select a trustee but no one would comment on whether Armstrong is to be nominated for the post. His term expires soon.

It was last fall that Armstrong dismissed Miss De Lee, an attractive 31-year-old brunette, claiming she failed to properly display the American flag at the school. Later he added charges that she was "disobedient, disrespectful, impudent, cruel in her treatment of pupils and incompetent."

The matter later was taken to the state education department and a decision is now pending.

"Talmud" to Present Play.

The "Talmud" have started work on the play "Talmud", written by Leonard Steinman and Mason Sefton. Director William Chazano has scheduled rehearsals for the next few weeks and expects to present the play on June 3. The initial rehearsal will begin tonight at 7 in the Temple Emanuel Hall. This is the organization's first venture along the line of dramatics and every thing points to a successful season for the club.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The big box-office premiere among the new films is, it goes without saying, Mae West's "Gold Diggers of 1935." But perhaps of more interest is an interpretation of Liam O'Flaherty's story, "The Informer."

In the latter film Victor McLaglen in the title role plays Gypo Nolan, "a bull of a man with the brain of a child," who betrays a friend for a price and is hounded by remorse and fear of retribution. The setting is Dublin in the strife of 1922, and out of this conflict grows a drama that is as simple as it is powerful. John Ford's direction concentrates on the characterization of Gypo Nolan, capitalizes on the seldom exploited film locale, and reviewers thought, gives his production the sweep and force it requires. In support, for Mae West's Ford, Preston Foster, Heather Angel, Margaret Grahame (the new English actress), Una O'Connor, and J. M. Kerrigan.

An Unusual Picture

"The Informer" is certainly to be ranked among the screen's unusual offerings.

From the same studio, R. K. O., comes "Village Tale," adaptation of the story by Phil Stone, the "State Fair" author. A picture without pretensions to greatness, "Village Tale" as directed by John Cromwell carries a certain appeal, especially in its visualization of the narrowness of the life it depicts. The village "general store" is a sort of arena for a feud between the good rich boy and the worthless bad family. For fight fans there is a big one at the finish. Randolph Scott, Kay Johnson, Gwyn Williams, Arthur Hohl, Robert Barrat, Janet Beecher, Edward Ellis, Dorothy Burgess and Donald Meek are in the cast.

Mae Goes Places

As for Mae West, instead of merely "Gold Diggers of 1935," she goes everywhere—from the Wild West where she starts as a dance hall girl to Buenos Aires (in pursuit of a man and the horse race) and back to east coast society.

Early in the picture Mae falls helplessly to a lot of land and cattle, and sets her heart on the man (Paul Cavanaugh) who spurns her. She contracts a "name-only" marriage with a society ne'er-do-well, and goes "lady-like" in typical West style. She gets the real man, need one add? The dialog is "western," and there is more of Mae than of anyone else in the picture, as expected.

Disorders Continuing
Craz, Austria, May 7 (AP)—Reports received today from Zagreb, Croatia, said post-election disorders were continuing in that Yugoslav district. A crowd of 300 persons came to Goeplach, in the Lika section, to protest against not being allowed to vote, the reports said, and police, unable to disperse them, opened fire. Three persons were killed and several wounded.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAUDE R. JACOB

New York, May 6 (AP).—Most financial market speculators had their fingers crossed today and few showed any disposition to make a decisive position on either side of the price structure.

Commission house commentators referred to the equities list as being in a "testing period." Some specialties continued to press downward but leading stocks displayed slipping tendencies in rather quiet dealing.

American Crystal Sugar Preferred, a 10-share unit, got up 3 points, and small advances were registered by Seaboard Oil, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Amerasia, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and North American. Spiegel-May-Stern moved up on an April sales report which disclosed a substantial gain over the 1934 period.

Eastman Kodak dropped 3 points and Coca-Cola was off nearly 2. Among others, down fractionally to around a point, were American Telephone, U. S. Steel Common and Preferred, Case, Columbian Carbon, Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, N. Y. Central and Chrysler.

Sweeney & Schonger
File Assignment

The firm of Sweeney & Schonger, Inc., sporting goods and clothing of Wall street, on Monday, May 6, made and filed a general assignment for the benefit of creditors. The assignee named is Edgar T. Shultz, former sheriff of Ulster county. Attorneys for the firm are Fowler and Connolly of 293 Wall street.

Robert Williams
To Conduct Group

The 400 voice male chorus will sing its last group at the Municipal Auditorium on Friday with Robert Williams of Newburgh as conductor. Mr. Williams is well known in the Hudson valley as the director of the Amphion Glee Club of Newburgh and the Saugerties Glee Club.

Kington has long appreciated his effective work as organist and choir director at St. John's Episcopal Church. He is also music director of the Newburgh Free Academy.

The final group under Mr. Williams' direction will be "Deep River," "Shenandoah" and "Prayer of Thanksgiving." "Deep River" is the negro spiritual which is regarded as the best example of the bitterness and sorrow which crept into those spirituals in the days of darkest slavery. Booker T. Washington, noted negro educator, said of the negro spirituals, "They breathe a childlike faith in a personal Father, and glow with the hope that the children of bondage will ultimately pass out of the wilderness of slavery, into the land of freedom. There is in these songs a pathos and a beauty that appeals to a wide range of tastes."

"Shenandoah" is a traditional chantey that is arranged by Matthew Bartholomew. It is a favorite with glee clubs and familiar for community singing.

It is fitting that the closing number for this concert celebrating music week for the entire Hudson valley should be folk songs from the Netherlands. It was the staunch people of that country who were the first settlers in this valley and from whom many of the present residents are descended. "Prayer of Thanksgiving" is typical of the Dutch folk music as they are fundamentally religious people. This particular number is an expression of their love of freedom and religious fervor. It is arranged for a male chorus by Krenser.

S. D. Scudder, Jr., accompanist of the Kingston Mendelssohn Club, will accompany the 400-voice chorus from 11 glee clubs in all four of their groups. His faithful and effective work as accompanist of the Mendelssohn Club at their complimentary concerts has endeared him to local audiences.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, May 7.—The Rev. Arnaldo Natino, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Johnstown, will conduct a service on Mother's Day, Sunday afternoon, 2 p. m., at the West Shokan Church. The Rev. Mr. Natino comes well recommended and is expected to deliver a soul stirring message. This is the first preaching service to be held here since last fall, when the Rev. C. F. W. Abrams was supplying from Walden. The service is being well advertised and it is hoped that there will be a large interest shown in the attendance. Everyone most cordially welcome.

Robert Thompson, veteran clerk at the Butler, N. J. CCC camp, enjoyed a week-end leave at his home here.

Prof. and Mrs. Arthur Condon of Palesville were callers among community friends on Sunday.

Gregorian Besardney and son, Julius, successfully whipped the mountain streams for trout Saturday and Sunday. With Mrs. Besardney the group spent the week-end with the hospitable Maple Dell Farm folks. They returned to Long Island City Sunday afternoon.

Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow and brother Edward, attended the double funeral of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Miller at the Samsonville Church Monday afternoon.

This week's mid-week prayer meeting will be held Wednesday evening at the Baptist parsonage, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Shepard Bell.

Many young people about the reservoir section attended the big house party given by Charles Bryant at Palesville Heights, Saturday night. It is reported that between four and five hundred people attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Weidner with Walter Schall attended the big entertainment held Saturday evening at Palesville.

Oliver Rebekah Lodge will hold its planned "Apple Blossom Time Dance," Thursday evening, May 9, at Olive Bridge L. O. O. F. Hall. Music will be furnished by the popular Catalina Mountaineers Rambler orchestra, dancing 9-1. The price of admission is very nominal and every one attending is assured an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

Edward Every of Frenchville is making a spring visit with his brother, Martin, at Traver Hollow.

Scout Leaders Are Busy.

This is a very busy week in the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America.

On Monday evening the Southern District Court of Honor was held in the high school at Highland with Dr. B. H. Matteson, chairman of the court. Among the many awards made were the rank of Eagle Scouts to two boys from New Paltz, Jack Koch and Ben Matteson.

Monday evening there was also a meeting of the men of the Church of the Redeemer for the purpose of organizing their Scout troop.

Wednesday evening, May 8, there will be a meeting of the men of the Northern District in the Central School in Greenville. This is the regular meeting of the district and it is hoped that all Scout men and leaders will be present.

Friday evening, May 10, the Northern District will hold their Court of Honor in the Grange Hall in Athens, when there will be the usual large number of awards given to the boys. The same evening there will also be a meeting of the Western District men in Chichester.

Sunday afternoon, May 5, a meeting took place in the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston of the Ulster-Greene National Jamboree delegates together with their parents. Plans of the jamboree were explained in detail and parents were given an opportunity to ask questions and to receive the latest information relative to this great event.

Cash-Payment Bonus Bill Substituted

Washington, May 7 (AP).—The Senate today substituted the Vinson cash-payment bonus bill for the compromise offered by Senator Harrison (D., Min.).

In doing so, it ignored warnings of a presidential veto.

The vote killed the Harrison compromise which was offered in an effort to get legislation acceptable to President Roosevelt.

But it left a final choice to be made by the Senate between the Vinson bill providing for full cash payment out of existing money and the Harrison bill to pay the bonus with an issue of new currency. The latter was passed by the House.

Senate leaders hoped to get a final vote by tomorrow.

Regular monthly meeting of the missionary society of the Reformed Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Harry V. Ten Slogen on Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. Topic, "Archie," leader, Mrs. M. A. Auchmuty.

Sabbath School Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel will be held at the Temple Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Phillips Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Phillips of Ashoken announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Helena Phillips, to David Crane Van De Bogart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron E. Van DeBogart of Wittenberg.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Pauline Steffenson of Marlborough has announced the engagement of her daughter, Muriel, to Bruce Scott, son of Mrs. Amelia Scott of Marlborough. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Horse Show Postponed

The New Paltz Riding Club horse show, which was to take place on Saturday, May 4, had to be postponed on account of the wet days after the rain, but will be held on Saturday, May 11, at 3 p. m., if the weather permits. There is no admission but an offering will be taken. Proceeds will go to the milk and food fund for undernourished children at the practice school. Mrs. Ira Zimmerman, founder of the club, is in charge of arrangements.

Birthday Dinner

Shandaken, May 7.—Mrs. A. G. Brown gave a birthday dinner to her son, Ward C. Hummel, on Saturday evening, May 4. When Ward arrived with his wife and son, Charles, and daughter, Margaret, he was greatly surprised to find Mr. and Mrs. Theron Townsend and daughters, Alta and Doris, and Mr. and Mrs. Jason Chambers and sons, John and Albert of Philadelphia, Pa., were also there being entertained by his mother and Mr. Brown and they all sat down to a sumptuous chicken dinner and a happy birthday cake with all good wishes for many happy returns of the day.

Olympian Club

The Olympian Club closed its season with a banquet at Mrs. Finch's Tea Room on Pearl street on Monday evening, which was delightful in every feature and appointment. The table had as its centerpiece a beautiful arrangement of spring flowers. The place cards were birthday cards, each bearing the date of the birthday of some member of the club. The favors were unique and a great surprise to all. They were reprints of a group picture of the club dated in May. Following the banquet of delicious food admirably served, a short business session was devoted to the election of officers for the coming year, as follows: President, Miss Hale; vice president, Mrs. Schutt; secretary, Mrs. James Murphy, Jr.; treasurer, Miss Cordes. This important matter taken care of, the club members abandoned themselves to an evening's enjoyment of games and sociability.

Surprise for Leiths

Mr. and Mrs. William Leith of Downs street were given a genuine surprise last evening when 16 of their friends honored them on the 26th anniversary of their marriage. The Leiths were enjoying a quiet game of pinochle with neighbors when a lustrous ring of the doorbell and a dozen voices shouting "surprise" suddenly greeted their ears. So taken back by the sudden invasion of their previous calm atmosphere were Mr. and Mrs. Leith that for some minutes neither seemed able to entirely comprehend the situation. However, after both had somewhat recovered from their shock, a most enjoyable evening was spent in cards, conversation and refreshments. Among the group were several wits of local note, singers without notes, and two very amateur magicians who contributed to the merriment. Congratulations were extended Mr. and Mrs. Leith as well as hopes for many future years of married bliss.

Birthday Party

A birthday party for Mrs. J. Guadagnolo of 69 Lafayette avenue was celebrated at the Old Tavern restaurant, 115 North Front street, Sunday evening, May 5. Friends and relatives were invited and a delicious supper was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Guadagnolo received many gifts from her friends and relatives and thanks all for the beautiful gift. When the orchestra started to play "Home Sweet Home" every one brought forth their sincere congratulations to Mrs. Guadagnolo. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Struble, Mr. and Mrs. J. Eganite, Mr. and Mrs.

F. Petramale, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Salvinio, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ovaltine, Mr. and Mrs. M. Basso, Mr. and Mrs. Sisco and family, Norwood Locke, Mr. and Mrs. Sottile and family, Miss Betty Nagy, Mary Wolven, Sue Biscardi, Joseph Barardi, Ken Bove, Mr. and Mrs. D. MAKE-IT-YOURSELF PLAN

OF SEWING MACHINE CO.

Women who want a whole wardrobe of lovely dresses this summer at surprisingly small expense are finding the answer to their problem at the Singer Sewing Machine Shop at 290 Fair street. Visitors are given full details of a unique Summer Wardrobe Plan developed by the Singer Company in cooperation with the leading pattern and fabric manufacturers to show how far a little money will go when you "Make It Yourself."

The main feature of the plan consists of ten garments—nine really beautiful dresses and a swaggar coat—that can be made for a small total cost. The dresses range from an attractive daytime frock to a lovely silk evening dress.

Visitors at the shop are presented with a free copy of the book. Several of the dresses in the wardrobe are also on display.

Visits Queen Mother

Rome, May 7 (AP).—King Leopold of the Belgians arrived at San Rossore, near Pisa, this afternoon to visit his fiancée, the Dowager Queen Elizabeth, who is ill. Italian embassy officials said here that the visit did not indicate the queen mother was seriously ill.

New Paltz Man Held
For Drunken Driving,
Rhodes in Hospital

Ernest Miller, 40, of New Paltz, is being held under $500 bail on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated, and Mason Rhodes of the same village is in the Kingston Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull as the result of an automobile accident on the New Paltz-Tilghton road Monday evening.

Miller driving his truck toward New Paltz about 5:30 ran into a ledge of rock on the road near the Ray Hasbrouck property. The auto turned over three times. Residents in the vicinity notified Corporal N. A. Baker and A. Klein of the state troopers. They sent Rhodes to the hospital and placed Miller under arrest.

At the Kingston Hospital today Rhodes' condition was given as fair. Miller was arraigned before Justice Barnes at New Paltz, who held him under the $500 bail pending the outcome of Rhodes' injuries. May 14 has been set as a tentative date of hearing.

About The Folks

Mr. and Mrs. Otis M. Marshall have sold their residence at 22 Elmhurst street to Jacob Lipgar of Coney Island, who with his family will take up their residence there soon. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall expect to return to Hackensack, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Reylea were called to Clifton Springs Sanitarium, Monday morning on account of the serious illness of his sister, Miss Stella Reylea, missionary of Kluhwa, China. Miss Reylea was operated on two weeks ago.

J. M. Pennington and daughter, Mrs. N. Fredenburgh, of Chicago, arrived via airplane at Newark, Sunday, to visit Marsh Pennington and family of Ulster Park. Mr. Pennington, who is 92 years of age, is the grandfather of Jeff, Arthur and David Pennington of Ulster Park, William, Gratia and Mark Pennington of this city, and great grandfather of James John Millard. He was photographed leaving the plane at Newark by the airport authorities. He will spend the summer with his son of Ulster Park.

Checking on Vessel

New York, May 7 (AP).—After more than nine hours fruitless search for a vessel which was reported in distress 20 miles off New Jersey, Coast Guard headquarters today appealed to all shipping to watch for the mysterious vessel. The position given by the ship, "20 miles off Sea Bright," is the "graveyard" of the Atlantic, near the scene of the Ward liners Moro Castle and Mohawk disasters.

Sheehan Man Not Here

At the National Re-employment Service office in the city hall this afternoon it was stated that no further word had been heard from the Sheehan Contracting Corporation of Albany whose representative is expected here to select labor to work on the construction of the Eastchester street by-pass. Work on the construction of the new road is expected to start shortly.

Botesfords Taken Back to Raritan, N. J.

John and Frances Botesford, held at the Ulster county jail on a charge of abduction, were taken back to Raritan, N. J., Monday afternoon by a police officer from that place to face the charge of kidnapping Ralph Lundt, the 6-year-old boy they claim is their son.

The couple, who were arrested Sunday afternoon at Milton by Sergeant John Lockhart of the state troopers, said they would fight all efforts to take the boy away from them. They were taken into custody on request of Raritan police, Sergeant Lockhart having received a description of them and the number of their automobile by teletype.

The county jail the Botesfords told the trooper that Ralph was their son, born out of wedlock six years ago. Carl Lundt, brother of Mrs. Botesford, took the boy and kept him up until Saturday, when the Botesfords picked him up in front of the Lundt home, where he was playing.

"We acted on the advice of a good attorney," Botesford said yesterday, "and have nothing to fear. We'll make every effort to keep Ralph. A year after the boy's birth, the Botesfords obtained a divorce from another woman. For five years we have been trying to get Ralph, but Lundt would not give him up. Botesford told deputy sheriffs yesterday when he posed for newspaper photos at the Ulster county court house.

On advice from an attorney the Botesfords took Ralph last Saturday and now are ready, they said, to go to court for the right to keep him. Ralph said he would rather stay with the Botesfords than return to the Lundt home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lundt, heartbroken over losing the boy have admitted, the authorities state, that they never had obtained legal adoption papers, feeling these to be unnecessary.

"We don't want to press charges," said Lundt. "We just want the boy given back to us."

NEW YORK LEADS IN WEEK-END AUTO DEATHS

Two firemen died and five were injured as this fire truck and battalion chief's car crashed at Albany, N. Y. Paradoxically they were en route to a minor rubbish blaze. As the state surveyed its week-end traffic fatalities, it found itself leading all other states, with 13 dead. (Associated Press Photo.)

State Medical Society Meeting

Many physicians from Ulster county and the city of Kingston will probably attend the 129th annual meeting of the Medical Society of the State of New York, to be held in Albany for three days, beginning May 13.

An attendance of a thousand physicians from various parts of the state is expected, according to Dr. Arthur J. Bedell of Albany, president of the society.

The official delegate from Ulster county to the meeting is Dr. Frederick W. Holcomb of Kingston, who is also chairman of the reference committee of the state organization. The reference committee is a subcommittee of the Committee of Public Relations, of which Dr. James E. Sadler of Poughkeepsie is general chairman.

Among Kingston physicians, who will probably attend the meeting are Dr. Joseph J. Jacobson, president, and Dr. Clarence L. Gannon, secretary of the Ulster County Medical Society.

A noted visitor to the Albany meeting will be Dr. Walter Alvarez of the famous Mayo Clinic. It is expected that while east Dr. Alvarez will visit Kingston and present plans for him to be here on May 14 and address a meeting of doctors from Ulster county and vicinity. The meeting will be held in the average home at the Kingston Hospital.

Masters of Kingston Lodges in New York

Harry Barnhart, master of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, E. & A. M., and John F. Romulus, master of Rindout Lodge, No. 343, left Kingston this morning for New York City, where they will attend the sessions of the Grand Lodge in Masonic Temple in New York. The sessions open this afternoon.

Plenty of Work

Hyde Park, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—"Smiling Jimmy" Roosevelt, 28-year-old son of the President, will find plenty of work to keep him busy when he turns farmer at the family estate on the banks of the Hudson River. Although his announced plan calls for a vacation from business, the many tasks involved in a farmer's life in the fertile river valley are expected to keep him at work from sun-up to sundown. The dairying carried on at the President's estate for which Jimmy expects to establish an accounting and cost system is only one of the many varied activities at the farm. There are 12 cows and all butter for the family is made and either shipped to New York or used at the town house.

AL GIVES HELPING HAND TO DOWN AND OUT SONGSTER

New York, May 7 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith, for whom the sidewalks of New York were childhood environment, gave a helping hand today to the man who enshrined them in the famous song:

"Boys and girls together... Me and Mamie Roke."

"Tripped the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York..." James W. Blake, the man who held the immortalized Mamie's hand and danced to hurdy-gurdy music down on the East Eleventh street years ago, is dangerously ill—and "broke."

Word that he might die unless an X-ray diagnosis of his illness could be made, at once reached the former governor.

"Someone should have told me sooner," Smith said. "I am extremely sorry to hear his condition is so serious. Send word that I will see he gets everything he needs." Smith's personal physician, Dr. Raymond T. Sullivan, arranged for Blake to be taken to a hospital today.

"They were all real people in that song," said John Blake, while his brother lay pale and drawn in a nearby bedroom. "Mamie Roke was real and so was Nellie Shannon and all the rest. We all lived down on East Eleventh street in those days, near Second avenue. It was all different then."

"Times have changed, too, for Blake since he wrote the words and Charles B. Lawlor (dead 10 years) wrote the music for 'Sidewalks of New York.' Disclaiming royalties that would have made them $5,000, it was the only real success of 50 Blake songs."

WEST HURLEY TAXPAYERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Taxpayers-Citizens Council of West Hurley and vicinity held their annual meeting and election of officers Saturday at Pine Crest Hall. There was a good attendance and a number of new members were taken in.

The following officers were unanimously elected: Max C. Ferro, president; Rudolf Steuermagie, secretary; Joseph Wagner, corresponding secretary.

It was voted to hold a celebration on Saturday, June 8, at which time a comedy, "Dr. Kill Me Quick," will be staged by the members of the organization. A luncheon will be served to all present and some prominent speakers will be secured. Lusitania Torpedoed Twenty Years Today

London, May 7 (AP)—On the twentieth anniversary of the sinking of the Lusitania Great Britain is concerned today over the new fleet of undersea craft which Germany is hastening to put into the water.

A German submarine torpedoed the Lusitania off the Irish coast on May 7, 1915, sending 1,198 persons, including 124 American citizens, to their deaths.

The treaty of Versailles deprived Germany of her deadly naval weapon, but Versailles wielded scant influence today in the Germany of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

The British hope to learn full details of the Reich's submarine construction program when the proposed Anglo-German naval conversations, once postponed, are held. So far the true situation has been obscured between reports that a German undersea fleet is ready to put to sea and German assertions that actual construction has not begun.

The Reich's plans are only one additional factor in the complex world naval situation created by Japan's denunciation of the Washington naval arms limitation treaty and the dissatisfaction with which France and Italy view the ratios to which they are subject.

Rain Halted Work On Work Projects

156 ATTENDED RECITAL AT TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH

The recital given by the pupils of the Roker Baer Studios Friday evening, May 3, at Trinity Lutheran Church was attended by 156 music lovers of Kingston and neighboring towns. There were 28 pupils who rendered solos, Robert Everett and his orchestra composed of five young musicians offered splendid conception of modern melodies.

Each pupil was well received by the audience. Little Joe Vigna and his accordion was outstanding in his performance. He not only showed musicianship with his instrument but, extraordinary stage performance.

The ages of the pupils ranged from five and a half to 14 and the pupils have studied with the studio less than two years.

Many comments were received regarding the arrangement of the program as not having the recital monthly. This was the first of a series of recitals given by Roker Baer. Other features offered by Roker Baer will be the appearance of Robert Everett and Roker Baer in a twin piano act at the Broadway Theatre. To follow will be the appearance of Miss Lucy Jones at the organ. Miss Ruth Gramer, Robert Everett and Roker Baer playing three pianos. All to be played at the same time. This act will be a new effort tried by the studios.

"Ain't No Use"

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Sailors know "left" and "right" only as "port" and "starboard" and there's no use trying to teach them otherwise, contends Andrew Furuseth, veteran seaman's lobbyist. Testifying on the proposed "safety at sea" treaty before the Senate commerce committee yesterday Furuseth said the ill-fated liner "Mohawk" sank because after the steering apparatus failed and the helmsman was ordered to go "left" and to go "right." "They didn't know what was meant," he said.

25 More Arrested
Ankara, Turkey, May 7 (AP)—Twenty-five additional arrests were made today as authorities rounded up those accused of complicity in a revolutionary plot to overthrow the Turkish Republican regime.

Joe Cronin finally has found a southpaw who can travel the route. The news in that statement is that he should have to wait three weeks before one of his Boston left-handers pitched a complete game. On paper, at least, the Red Sox have the strongest portable pitching contingent in the major leagues.

Fritz Ostermuller, a sophomore member of the southpaw staff which also includes Bob Grove, Rube Walberg and George Hockett, reached top form yesterday just in time to outpoint Oral Hildebrand in a tight pitching argument, beat the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, and elevate the idle Chicago White Sox to the American League lead.

Taken out of the box in three previous starting assignments, Ostermuller limited the tribe to six hits, fanned six and drove Mel Almada home with the winning run with a seventh inning single.

Fritz, 45th in American League pitching percentages last season but ninth in the earned run ratings with an average of 3.48 runs per nine-inning game, had all his stuff against the Indians. A base on balls to Sammy Hale and Bruce Campbell's pop fly double gave Cleveland its lone run in the sixth but Ostermuller was in complete control otherwise. A pass to Max Bishop, a sacrifice and Roy Johnson's single scored Boston's first run in the opening frame.

Not only did Ostermuller become the first Red Sox left-hander to pitch a complete game but the third Boston finger of any kind to go the route. Previously only Wes Ferrell and Johnny Welch had been able to finish what they started, Ferrell going the route twice.

Their defeat sent the Indians into second place with nine victories and four defeats, the White Sox going to the top with 11 and 4.

The only other major league game of the day found the Pittsburgh Pirates staging another Garmonish to whip the Boston Braves, 8 to 6, for their third victory in four starts in the east.

Neither starting pitcher, Ralph Binkler of the Pirates and Flint Rhem of the Braves, got past the second inning and the teams started all over again in the third with the score tied at 5-5. Doubles by Urbanski and Mallon off Walter Hoyt gave the Braves the lead in the seventh but the Corsairs scored three off Larry Benton and Huck Betts in the ninth to win the ball game.

These runs came on a pass to Babe Herman, pinch hitting for Hoyt, a double by Lloyd Waner, his fourth hit of the game, a single by Jensen, an error by Al Spohrer and Gus Suba's long fly. Cy Blanton, Pirate freshman pitching sensation, stopped the Braves cold in the ninth, fanning two men to bring his total strikeouts for the season to thirty.

Forst Packers Will Get Uniforms Tonight For Crystal Contest

All members of the Forst baseball team are to be at the Kantowitz store, North Front street, tonight at 7 o'clock sharp to get their new uniforms for Wednesday's game with the Crystal Beauty Shoppe.

Herb Mills, manager of the Packers, today said that he is anxious for all of his men to be at tonight's meeting. Besides receiving the uniforms, the players will get important instructions concerning the tilt with the Beauticians.

"We had quite a job getting Fred Davis' men to play us, but they finally consented and are in for their first trimming of the season tomorrow evening."

The game between the Packers and Beauticians is scheduled for 6:15 at the Athletic Field. Anticipations are that there will be a large turnout of fans on hand to see the clubs go to it in the preliminary to the opening game of the City Baseball League.

Both clubs are expected to use Bill Thomas on the mound and Benny Benjamin behind the plate. "I think Manager Tiano will send Ted Fraleigh out to 'em 'em up to us and put Joe Hoffman behind the bat," Mills said.

Thomas will not play with the Forsts in the City League, having signed up with the Schryvers. But he will be with the Packers in their road games.

Dark Horses Upset Barrels Of Early Dope

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, May 7 (AP)—Not in many years have the two major league championships resembled old-fashioned "dog fights" so much as they do this spring.

It is, of course, quite true that two of the prime favorites, the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants, have been doing very well when it is considered that both clubs have patched up their ineidies. Both have shown the pitching class expected of them and exhibited power. The Indians may be stronger when Billy Knickerbocker returns to action and the Giants will be better off, defensively, with Hughie Critz back at second base.

They will need to be. Already the dark-horses in both leagues, led by the Chicago White Sox in the American, the Brooklyn Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds in the National, have upset several barrels of dope.

The White Sox, on top today, may be too good to last but there is no fluke in their jump from the 1934 cellar to such dizzy heights. Johnny Whitehead, the freshman right-hander who has scored four victories in a row, and his former Dallas pitching mate, Joe Vance, have filled two of the club's pitching gaps.

Were Once "Hitless Wonders"

The Sox lead in the league in fielding as well as batting, with a 10-point margin over the Athletics and a 20-point lead over the clubbing Clevelanders. Hayes, Bonura, Dykes, Appling, Washington and the veteran Al Simmons all are hitting over .300 for a team that was once famous as the "hitless wonders."

Both championship clubs, Detroit's Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals, have started slowly but they will be eager to beat as the season develops. The Bengals already have snapped out of their slump, though Schoolboy Rowe has yet to show a return to his sensational 1934 form.

The Cardinals have missed Manager Frankie Frisch and Pepper Martin, both casualties, but the Deans are coming along now, aided by Bill Walker, to furnish the kind of pitching the club needs. Meanwhile, the spring hero, Terry Moore, has yielded the center-field post to Ernie Ott in the lineup of the world champions.

Cy Blanton Rookie Surprise

The rookie surprise of the National League is Elijah Darrell (Cy) Blanton, screw-ball right hander of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Blanton has taken the pitching spotlight from Dixie Dean with his exploits so far, which include a one-hit shutout of the Cardinals and a 2-2 decision over the great Dean.

Cy has registered four straight and fanned 30 opposing batters in the process to become the new strikeout king, at least for the time being. National Leaguers say Blanton's screw ball is equally as baffling as Carl Hubbell's.

All told Blanton has had a hand in five of the nine games won by the Pirates, who will need to get more consistent pitching otherwise to menace the leaders. The Cubs again seem to be poised to the Deans brothers, beating Dixie and Paul on successive days, and have regained a good deal of their old punch.

The Reds not only have shown the old college spirit but a strong defense and unexpectedly fine pitching. The Braves have not had much batting help from Babe Ruth since he blasted the Giants on opening day but they have enjoyed extraordinary financial success, at least, because of the old Bambino's pull at the box of Sox.

Jimmy Fox's noble experiment behind the bat has not dimmed the batting eyes of the Maryland Mauler but neither has it proved an inspiration to the Athletics' young pitching staff. Joe Cronin is already having his troubles with the Red Sox hurling corps, as was to be expected, lacking a comeback by Lefty Grove.

The Yankees can hardly be expected to get very far with Lou Gehrig hitting around .210 but Captain Lou no doubt will remedy the situation shortly, as soon as he throws out, and furnish the driving power for an upward climb.

Boxing Bouts To Be Held At Municipal Auditorium Tonight

The headliners on the boxing program to be presented by the American Legion at the Municipal Auditorium tonight will be Frankie Mirable of Albany and Buddy Moran of Utica.

There is much interest, however, in the semi-final, when Johnny Raymond of East Kingston will attempt a comeback, after being laid up for several months with a broken hand, received in the Golden Glove eliminations last year. He will have as his opponent Tony Restifo of Albany, the tireless slugger who recently defeated Benny Ross.

Larry Kellum of Oneonta, who has easily taken three matches of Legion cards, will try his left jab against Joe Mink of Utica, a newcomer and who, according to Matchmaker Finnerty, is the toughest opponent he has yet faced.

Several local boys will be seen in the preliminaries, among them Ralph North of Port Ewen, who in his last fight won out in 55 seconds by a knock-out.

The Preliminaries

Phil Alagna, 148, Albany, vs. Lewis Costello, 147, Utica, five rounds.

Ralph North, 147, Kingston, vs. Eddie Burns, 142, Albany, five rounds.

Charlie Forezzi, 121, Albany, vs. Tony Scalzo, 120, Utica, five rounds.

Joey Turck, 125, Kingston, vs. Ralph DeCastro, 126, Rome, five rounds.

Chestnut Hill Tennis Club Merges With Twaalfskill Club

The Chestnut Hill Tennis Club, the oldest tennis organization in Kingston, has merged with the Twaalfskill Club this year, and their two day courts will be used by the members of both clubs during the coming season. The Twaalfskill Club, with only one tennis court, brought about the merger in order to give its membership more adequate playing facilities and to make it possible for matches to be played with other Hudson valley tennis teams during the year. The two courts of the Chestnut Hill Tennis Club are located near the Twaalfskill Club on West Chestnut street and are considered to have the finest playing surface of any courts in the city.

The Chestnut Hill Tennis Club was organized in 1916 at which time one court was built. As the enthusiasm for tennis increased the membership also grew larger and it became necessary to construct another court on the property. The second court was built in 1924. So popular did the club become that it soon had its full quota of members and for several years there was a large waiting list of players. The new merger makes it possible for all former members of the Chestnut Hill Club to use the courts at any time as well as the membership of the Twaalfskill Club.

When the Chestnut Hill Tennis Club was first organized it carried the following membership: Charles Terwilliger, C. J. Heiselman, Dr. C. D. Carter, Charles R. O'Connor, Frank W. Thompson, Louis Geeser, Willis Hills, A. R. Pades, Henry C. Connelly, William D. Brinley, Jr., William R. Bennett, Dwight McCauley, Samuel M. Watts, Harry G. Smith, Raymond L. Thompson, Dr. Arthur M. Cragin, Monroe Burger, John C. Weber, Alfred W. Tongue, Louis Hoysradt, Victor Johnston, John R. Munroe and the Rev. Mr. Barringer.

ERB Bowled Troubles Away for the Night

Commissioner Henry Fort challenged Commissioner A. S. Staples to Bowling Match—Challenge Accepted—Met on Bowling Alleys Monday Night.

Commissioner Henry Fort, chairman of the local emergency relief bureau, and the other members of the ERB have been having a strenuous time trying to make the appropriation of funds struck as far as possible, and Monday afternoon Commissioner Fort challenged Commissioner A. S. Staples to meet on the bowling alleys that night. The well known brick manufacturer accepted the challenge as soon as it was issued, and the place of meeting was Bowler's bowling alleys on the Saenger road.

Commissioner Fort selected as his men in the conflict City Engineer Henry Darrow, Max Roben, purchasing agent; C. F. Sharret, Hugh McCullough and Ed McCaffrey, and Commissioner Staples immediately dubbed the team the Fort Hot Dogs.

Commissioner Fort retaliated by naming the opposition the Staples Brick Bats. The brick manufacturer selected as his team Commissioner Nicholas Horoborn, Walter Klingman, Mayor Heiselman, H. S. Skutis and Superintendent Norton of the Board of Public Works.

The high spot of the match was the form displayed by Mr. Roben, whose name improved as the night wore on, and his friends say that if the match had continued until the early morning hours of today that Mr. Roben would have established a record that no other bowler could expect to equal.

The score was not made public but it was announced that may have there might be a return match in the not too distant future.

CANCER CURES GIVE HOPE TO AFFLICTED

Clinical Research Has Made Wonderful Strides.

Kansas City, Mo.—Clinical research has advanced so far in its work with cancer that afflicted persons need no longer become resigned to the belief that they are incurable.

Most cases of cancer now are curable by surgery, and clinical observations have established some facts contributory to a science of cancer prevention. It was disclosed by Dr. William Walters, assistant professor of surgery at the Mayo Foundation, Rochester, Minn., in addressing surgeons here.

Doctor Walters is one of the nation's most distinguished young surgeons, a specialist in the surgery of cancer.

The two greatest obstacles in a scientific treatment of cancer is widespread quackery and the lack of public information on preventive methods, he indicated. The cause of cancer is still unknown, but researchers now know certain races and families are more susceptible to cancer than others, and some possess cancer resistance. The white race is subject to cancer more than any other race.

Doctor Walters explained: "Cancer is curable when the lesion is localized. Both the X-ray and radium treatments have proved a great aid to surgery in the treatment of cases where surgery was impossible. Cures have resulted in such cases.

"The skin cancer is noticeable as it becomes a nodular tumor. In many cases the skin will break down and an ulcerous condition will develop. Any lump of the skin that resists treatment should be regarded with anxiety by the patient and a doctor should be consulted.

"An internal cancer develops internal disorders. When any organic function becomes disturbed an examination for cancer should be made. The diagnosis of cancer is conclusive. Today the scientific viability of the internal organs makes cancerous examinations almost perfect."

Doctor Walters said that a third, possibly half, of all surgical cases today are in the field of cancer. He said that in more than half the cases the affected organs could be removed.

Device Tells Weather by Use of Cosmic Rays

Chicago—Can long-range weather prognostications be made through the study of cosmic rays?

Alexander Maxwell of this city, says "Yes." For many years, part of the time in co-operation with Northwestern university, he has been working to perfect a weather predicting instrument utilizing cosmic rays, those magnetic impulses which scientists say emanate from the earth and which are reflected by the moon from the sun.

His "magnetometer" is constructed entirely of wood, with the exception of a tiny needle beam of fine cobalt steel, which is sensitive, he says, to the transverse produced by solar magnetism. It stands approximately 54 inches high and contains a marked wooden bar. The needle is suspended above the bar and its pendulum actions are recorded through a microscope.

If the "magnetometer" needle swings one-half of one degree away from the center line, Mr. Maxwell predicts that the weather will be calm for six weeks from the date of recording. If it swings five degrees away from the center line, he prognosticates that in six weeks Chicago will experience violent weather. The device is based on a theory of 250 years' standing, but this is the first practical application of the theory for weather predictions, Mr. Maxwell says.

Alaska Reports Boom in Business During 1934

Juneau—Alaska experienced its greatest boom in years during 1934, figures compiled by the territorial chamber of commerce has revealed.

Exports totaled $61,317,300 in value, an increase of $18,000,000 over 1933. Imports were $20,275,478, an increase of $6,000,000.

Principal export items were fish and gold. Shipments of gold totaled $4,522 ounces, an increase of 70,105 over 1933. Steamships operating between Alaska and the states carried 24,000 passengers, a gain of 7,382 over the year before.

Normal Burglar

Duchess of MAIN ST.

The Main Street of Today runs from one end of the country to the other. It stretches from Broadway and Fifth Avenue in New York to Market Street in San Francisco. Main Street extends wherever highways offer quick travel into towns. And the Duchess of Main Street is the American Housewife of today. Her's has been the will which has changed Main Street from small rows of seedy stores to the inviting counters of modern retailing.

Great Grandmother

In pioneer days the present Duchess' great-grandmother was the manufacturer of all her family's clothes. She had to brew all the family's medicines. She raised and prepared all her family's food. Long hours and endless toil were her lot.

Grandmother

The Duchess' grandmother demanded someplace where a few staples could be purchased. By 1870, almost every community boasted of at least one general store and perhaps one or two early attempts at grocery stores. Quantity not quality, of the few items restocked once or twice a year, was the rule of her day. The packaged and canned foods could be counted on the fingers of both hands. Typical of that era was the old cracker barrel and open sacks of stale coffee beans.

Mother of the Duchess

Around 1900, packaged and canned foods began to make a general appearance. The Duchess' mother by her choice of goods demanded that reputation should be added to convenience of use. She gladly accepted the new breakfast foods, the canned foods of all varieties, the preserved delicacies, when the merchant and manufacturer made direct appeal to her through advertising.

The power of the printed word meant more to her than a personal visit because it was the same message for everyone. In advertising she found a uniform gauge of values, prices and standards.

A Rich Legacy

Through advertising, today's Duchess of Main Street has come into her own. With more confidence than ever she rules Main Street and merchants still vie for her patronage. She recognizes the advertising in the newspapers as a servant and guide in purchasing as clearly as she relies on the newspapers for timely news of local and world happenings. Rich, indeed, is her inheritance compared to her great grandmother's.

Time—Her Greatest Asset

The modern Duchess of Main Street has learned to place a true value on her time. The loaf of bread in her basket along with the cans of properly prepared fruits and vegetables, the bottle of fresh milk, package of laundry soap, can of fresh, ground coffee, and special-purpose food ingredients—all purchased for a fraction of the value of her time—save her many hours of deadening toil. Still young at forty she faces many more years of youth. She has the joy of growing up with her children instead of the drudgery of slaving for them and becoming careworn at thirty.

Ruler of Business

Gone are the days of bulk sales and unknown brands of doubtful origin. Packaged food and other conveniences now purchasable have become not more but less expensive. These changes were made by the American Housewife. For, by her insistence upon high standards established through advertising, the Duchess of Main Street is the ruler of modern stores and modern marketing methods.

A Fact Worth Knowing

Today, in America there is more than one food store (grocery, vegetable, meat, etc.) for every 300 people. These markets, conspicuous for their scarcity in 1850 and their general untidiness even in 1890, have grown until today their employment reaches 1,000,000. Another 1,000,000 employees are directly engaged in the manufacture and distribution of food products. The convenience and sanitary standards of modern food markets have kept pace with the uniformly high quality of modern food products. Today, sales in American food stores amount to almost $10,000,000,000 a year—one-fifth of all retail sales.

Healer Aids Law

Jake Beehringer, 72-year-old "healer," gave Chicago police a jolt when he went into one of his mystic spells and predicted a body would be found in a certain coal cellar. Police started digging, and preliminary findings indicated the "healer" may have been right. (Associated Press Photo)

FLATBUSH

Flatbush, May 6.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society is to be held at the parsonage on Friday afternoon, May 10, at 2:30 o'clock. The classical visitor, Mrs. C. Van Tol, of Stone Ridge, is expected at this meeting.

Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. H. Durling, Mrs. A. Palen, Mrs. C. Ducker and Mrs. F. Kukuk attended the Eastern District Home Bureau Federation meeting at Middletown on Wednesday. They enjoyed the meeting very much and found the exhibit especially interesting.

Prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock will be at the church hall. If the weather is favorable and it is desired, the meeting will be held on the lawn. The book to be discussed this week is Paul's Epistle to the Galatians.

The regular business meetings of the T. X. T. Club will be omitted until the fall, unless an emergency arises, in which case a meeting will be called. The clubhouse will be open as usual on meeting nights, for social intercourse.

Richard Kukuk has returned to Albany, after an extended visit with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. Kukuk.

The Bunco party, held at the clubhouse last Friday by the 4-H boys under Harry D. Carle, was well attended and everybody present had a good time.

Trends Favorable in State Banking

Recent Figures Indicate Large Increases in Deposits and Invested Funds

Improvement in the condition of state banks in almost every respect during 1934 is shown by statistics recently assembled, Robert M. Hanes, President Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina, points out in an article in "Banking," published by the American Bankers Association. The figures on which this statement is based were gathered by the Committee on State Bank Research of the association from reports furnished by state bank supervisors throughout the country.

"Ever since 1921 the number of state banks has been declining," Mr. Hanes says. "Between 1921 and 1934 the decline was rapid. Figures for December 31, 1934, showed that the downward trend has not yet ended, but the decline last year was the smallest in twelve years."

There are now, he says, about ten thousand state banks, which turn in assets all state chartered institutions. The question of mutual savings banks, the article continues: "Even more significant was the decline of the decline of deposits in state banks which had been going on since the collapse of the stock market boom in 1929. In recent years for which figures are available the drop has been particularly abrupt. Total deposits in state banks declined from $79,395,762 on December 31, 1931, to $15,426,209 on December 31, 1934. The record for 1934 shows a recovery of $17,765,000 at the year-end."

Significance of increased deposits is particularly gratifying to note the expansion of deposits, since it was the decline which made necessary the liquidation of investments, the calling of loans, and all the other phenomena which go under the name of "deflation." In recent years, it is now plain that this was due to efforts of the banks to place themselves in the position of enough liquid assets to meet the growing demands of depositors for return of a part of the money which had been placed on deposit.

That this is true is borne out by the present of invested funds of state banks, which has paralleled that of deposits. These invested funds (loans and accounts plus investments) for state banks, dropped from $20,291,000,000 at the end of 1931, to $14,918,722,000 at the end of 1934. By December 31, 1934, however, they had recovered to $16,309,510,000.

All of this gain is accounted for by the increase in investments during 1934. The expansion amounting to approximately $1,391,000,000.

For loans and discounts, they registered a slight drop again in 1934, but it the rate of decline was much smaller than in previous years, which in itself is progress. Whereas the drop in loans and discounts amounted to approximately $1,300,000,000 in 1932, it was less than $500,000,000 in 1934.

"In another respect the balance sheet figures for December 31, 1934, were especially impressive. Bills payable and discounts of the state banks, which at the end of 1932 had reached a depression high of $569,709,000, had dropped by the close of last year to the low figure of $22,181,000. One must search the records as far back as 1917 to find bills payable and discounts of state banks at a lower figure. Moreover, it is reasonable to expect a further reduction of such borrowings during the current year."

Race For Troops

Harrisburg, Pa.—During young men could perform on flying trapezes or out up any other high risks in public without thought of the law. If Senator Peter Graf, third, his way.

Graf introduced a bill to repeal the act of 1882, which prohibited "the placing in peril of the life and limbs of performers or exhibitors in places of public amusement."

Reverse English

New York—Nine aspiring writers using collections of rejection slips instead of published works have been chosen as finalists in a contest for a scholarship in short-story writing at New York University. The collections were exhibited in a "hobby roundup."

Reject With Regret

Evanston, Ill.—The city council is very, very sorry, but it is unable to do anything for color-blind motorists from Chicago.

One of the members pointed out that in Evanston there are green lights on traffic signals are placed in the opposite order from Chicago's system and that this is most confusing to color-blind drivers who distinguish the signals by the position of the light and not the color. But the council agreed with another of its members who said it would be impossible to change the arrangement.

A Favor

East St. Louis, Ill.—City Judge Ralph Cook had to make a decision and he did so by sentencing Gilbert Upton, his World War pal of the 124th Field Artillery, 23rd Division, to fourteen years in the state prison at Menard, Ill.

"We're doing this to help you," the court said, but Upton did not thank the court.

Upton was arrested recently, accused of stealing a cigarette machine while intoxicated. Previously he had been put on probation after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Cultivation
Frequent shallow cultivation of the garden is recommended. This will keep weeds from getting a start and will break up the surface crust, allowing air and rain water to enter the soil more readily.

Agriculture extension agents are conducting schools to teach farmers in the south how to make their own mattresses out of cotton, as part of the general "live-at-home" program.

In 1901, James E. Phinney was Mayor of Kingston and George M. Brink was Postmaster. Stephen D. Hood was Chief of Police with an organization of 19 men. 15 Blacksmiths were listed in the Kingston Directory and no automobile dealers. There were 10 bicycle dealers and 8 dealers in Blue Stone. The Mansion House was doing a big business at Broadway and West Strand and there was a Santa Claus Hotel at Abeel and Davis streets. In 1901, McKinley was assassinated and "Teddy" Roosevelt became President of the U. S. Benjamin B. Odell of Newburgh was Governor of New York State. It was in this year that the present Up-to-Date Co. began business in a meagre way on Wall street.

Lehman Vetoes Bill To Put Prison Guards On Eight-Hour Shifts

Albany, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Declaring that the state's financial conditions will not permit the additional expenditures which the legislation would demand, Governor Herbert H. Lehman today vetoed a bill designed to place guards and other uniformed employees of New York prisons and reformatories on an eight-hour day.

For the same reason, he also rejected a measure permitting an eight-hour day for nurses and other employees in any state, county or city hospital or in any hospital supported in whole by public funds.

While admitting these employees are required "to work unreasonably long hours" and that the situation should be remedied as soon as possible, the governor said:

"Unfortunately, however, the finances of the state do not permit at this time of the additional commitments in these bills, which would be mandatory."

He pointed out that several thousands of new employees would be required, in addition to new quarters to accommodate them.

"It is estimated," the governor said, "that in personal service and maintenance and for the housing facilities of only half of the new employees, the additional cost to the state, if these bills were now enacted, would be from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 the first year and from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 annually thereafter."

He promised to support the bills next year "if the finances of the state permit."

Other Bills Rejected
The governor also vetoed eight other measures including bills to: Make the state responsible for the care and support of any person having no settlement in any public welfare district.

Appropriate $150 for the refunding to a private corporation an amount overpaid for franchise taxes. Require payment to the state comptroller of all fines and forfeited bail for crimes committed by Indians on any Indian reservation. Provide that in Nassau county alcoholic beverage tax moneys shall be apportioned between the towns and the village in the proportion that the population of each village bears to that of the town.

In vetoing the latter, the governor said he felt "it is better governmental administration to preserve uniformity" is to the distribution of the moneys.

The present state-wide law requires that villages receive one-third
